CLAIMS REPORTING PROTOCOL NOTICE

THIS NOTICE IS PROVIDED FOR INFORMATIONAL PURPOSES.
IT DOES NOT CHANGE THE COVERAGE PROVIDED BY THIS POLICY.

NOTICE TO POLICYHOLDER

The policy consists of the declarations, coverage forms, schedules, notices, and endorsements issued by the company. Read all pages together before relying on a single schedule or summary.

A certificate of insurance, billing statement, producer correspondence, or claim notice does not change a limit, deductible, location, form, classification, exclusion, premium, or effective date.

If the policyholder requests a change, the change is effective only when the company issues an endorsement or revised declarations page. Retain all later endorsements with the policy packet.

Questions about billing, audit, loss reporting, or policy changes should be directed to the producer or servicing office shown in the declarations.

The forms schedule identifies the edition date for each coverage form, endorsement, amendatory page and notice attached to the policy packet.

If more than one schedule refers to the same location or building, read the location number, building number, coverage name, form number, and effective date together before relying on the entry.

The insured should retain the full packet, including replaced pages, because later endorsements may apply only from their effective dates.

KEEP THIS NOTICE WITH YOUR POLICY FOR FUTURE REFERENCE.

DUTIES FOLLOWING A COVERED EVENT

LOCATION: 001 BUILDING: 002
COVERAGE: Business Income and Extra Expense
FORM: BPF 04 39 EDITION: 12 23 LIMIT: $125,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

B. This form applies to Business Income and Extra Expense at Location 001, Building 002, subject to the $125,000 limit and $10,000 deductible shown in the declarations.

C. Form BPF 04 39 edition 12 23 must be read with the premises schedule and the Actual Loss Sustained valuation entry.

D. Prompt notification of any event that may result in a claim is a fundamental condition precedent to receiving indemnity under this agreement. The policyholder must alert the carrier or its authorized representative as soon as practicable after discovering the impairment or liability exposure.

E. The notification must include comprehensive details regarding the time, place, and circumstances of the event. Furthermore, the policyholder must identify any injured parties and potential witnesses, providing contact information where available.

F. In the context of property impairment, the policyholder must take immediate and reasonable steps to protect the remaining property from subsequent harm. The carrier will reimburse reasonable expenses incurred for this temporary protection, subject to overall policy limits.

G. The policyholder must separate damaged from undamaged property, allowing the carrier's representatives to conduct a thorough inspection. Detailed inventories of the affected items, including quantities, acquisition costs, and estimated replacement values, must be prepared.

H. If the event involves suspected criminal activity, such as theft or vandalism, the policyholder must promptly notify the appropriate law enforcement authorities. A copy of the official police report must be secured and forwarded to the carrier.

I. The carrier reserves the authority to require the policyholder to submit to an examination under oath regarding the circumstances of the claim. This examination may be conducted multiple times if reasonably necessary to establish the facts.

J. Within the timeframe specified by the carrier, the policyholder must submit a signed, sworn proof of loss document. This document formalizes the claim and includes specific assertions regarding the ownership of the property, the cause of the event, and the total amount requested.

K. In liability scenarios, the policyholder must immediately forward any demands, notices, summonses, or legal papers received in connection with the event. The carrier requires these documents to evaluate the exposure and organize an appropriate defense.

L. The policyholder must cooperate fully with the carrier in the investigation, settlement, or defense of any claim or suit. This includes attending hearings, assisting in securing evidence, and facilitating the attendance of witnesses.

M. No voluntary payments, assumed obligations, or incurred expenses may be made by the policyholder without the prior written consent of the carrier, except for immediate medical aid at the time of an incident.

SUBROGATION AND THIRD-PARTY RECOVERY

LOCATION: 002 BUILDING: 002
COVERAGE: Equipment Breakdown
FORM: BPF 04 62 EDITION: 12 23 LIMIT: $125,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to Equipment Breakdown at Location 002, Building 002, subject to the $125,000 limit and $10,000 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 04 62 edition 12 23 must be read with the premises schedule and the Replacement Cost valuation entry.
- D. When the carrier provides financial indemnity for a loss, it automatically assumes the policyholder's rights to pursue recovery from any third party responsible for the impairment. This transfer of rights is fundamental to the equitable distribution of risk.
- E. The policyholder must execute any documents and perform any actions necessary to secure and preserve these recovery rights. Any action taken by the policyholder that prejudices the carrier's ability to pursue subrogation may result in a proportional reduction of the indemnity provided.
- F. Prior to the occurrence of an event, the policyholder may waive their rights of recovery against another party through a formal written contract. The carrier acknowledges such waivers provided they are executed before the loss and documented appropriately.
- G. After an event has occurred, the policyholder may not waive recovery rights against any party without the explicit written authorization of the carrier. Unauthorized post-loss waivers severely compromise the carrier's financial position and violate the terms of this agreement.
- H. If the carrier successfully recovers funds from a responsible third party, the proceeds are distributed according to a specific hierarchy. The carrier first deducts the expenses incurred during the recovery effort, including legal fees and investigation costs.
- I. Following the deduction of expenses, the policyholder is reimbursed for any deductible amounts previously absorbed. The remaining funds are then retained by the carrier up to the total amount of indemnity disbursed for the claim.
- J. Any surplus funds recovered beyond the carrier's disbursements and the policyholder's deductible will be remitted to the policyholder. This ensures that the recovery process does not result in an unintended windfall for the carrier.
- K. The carrier retains sole discretion over whether to initiate, continue, or abandon subrogation proceedings. The policyholder cannot compel the carrier to pursue a third party if the carrier determines the effort is not economically viable.
- L. In situations where the policyholder initiates their own recovery action against a third party, they must notify the carrier immediately. The carrier may elect to join the action to protect its financial interests.
- M. These recovery provisions apply equally to both property impairment claims and liability disbursements, ensuring a consistent approach to third-party accountability across all coverage parts.

COVERAGE: Outdoor Property
FORM: BPF 04 28 EDITION: 12 23 LIMIT: $200,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to Outdoor Property at Location 001, Building 002, subject to the $200,000 limit and $1,000 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 04 28 edition 12 23 must be read with the premises schedule and the Replacement Cost valuation entry.
- D. The carrier possesses the right, though not the obligation, to conduct physical inspections and surveys of the scheduled premises and operations at any reasonable time during the policy period.
- E. These assessments are performed exclusively for underwriting purposes, premium determination, and the evaluation of insurability. They are not intended to serve as comprehensive safety audits or regulatory compliance checks.
- F. The policyholder must grant the carrier's representatives access to the facilities, equipment, and relevant operational records necessary to complete the survey. Failure to facilitate these inspections may result in adverse administrative action.
- G. Following an inspection, the carrier may provide recommendations regarding risk mitigation, property protection, or operational safety. The implementation of these recommendations is generally at the discretion of the policyholder.
- H. However, if a specific hazard is identified that significantly alters the risk profile, the carrier may require the implementation of corrective measures as a condition of continued coverage. Written notice will outline the required actions and the timeframe for completion.
- I. The carrier does not warrant that the premises are safe, healthful, or in compliance with local, state, or federal regulations. The responsibility for maintaining a safe environment remains entirely with the policyholder.
- J. The issuance of this policy does not imply that all potential hazards have been identified or that the current risk control measures are adequate. The policyholder should not rely upon the carrier's inspections as a substitute for internal safety protocols.
- K. Reports generated from these surveys are the proprietary property of the carrier and are utilized internally for risk assessment. The carrier is not obligated to share the full contents of these reports with the policyholder.
- L. If the policyholder utilizes third-party risk management consultants, the carrier may request access to their findings to supplement its own underwriting evaluation.
- M. These inspection provisions extend to any newly acquired locations or newly formed organizations that the policyholder seeks to add to the schedule during the policy period.

LOCATION: 002 BUILDING: 002

FORM: BPF 04 91 EDITION: 04 24 LIMIT: $235,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to Water Back-Up at Location 002, Building 002, subject to the $235,000 limit and $1,000 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 04 91 edition 04 24 must be read with the premises schedule and the Scheduled Limit valuation entry.
- D. The rights and duties established under this agreement are specific to the named insured designated on the declarations. These rights cannot be transferred, sold, or assigned to another entity without the express written authorization of the carrier.
- E. If the policyholder attempts to assign the policy without consent, the assignment is considered void, and the carrier's obligations remain solely with the original named insured. This restriction prevents the unauthorized transfer of risk to ununderwritten entities.
- F. In the event the named insured is an individual and passes away during the policy period, the rights and duties temporarily transfer to a legal representative. This transfer is strictly limited to actions necessary to maintain the property and settle outstanding affairs.
- G. Any modifications to the terms, conditions, or schedules of this agreement must be executed through a formal written endorsement issued by the carrier. Verbal agreements or informal communications with producers do not alter the policy language.
- H. The first named insured listed on the declarations is authorized to request changes to the policy on behalf of all other insured parties. The carrier will direct all correspondence, endorsements, and administrative notices to this primary individual or entity.
- I. When a change request results in a modification of the risk profile, the carrier will calculate any corresponding adjustment to the premium. Additional premiums must be remitted promptly to ensure the continuation of the revised terms.
- J. If a change results in a reduction of exposure, the carrier will process a return premium in accordance with the applicable rating rules. Return premiums are typically credited to the policyholder's billing account.
- K. The carrier may periodically update its standard forms and endorsements to reflect regulatory changes or internal guidelines. If these updates broaden coverage without an additional premium charge, the broadened terms will automatically apply to this agreement.
- L. However, if form updates restrict coverage, the carrier will not apply them mid-term. Such restrictions will only be introduced at the time of policy renewal, accompanied by the required statutory notices.
- M. The policyholder is responsible for reviewing all issued endorsements to ensure they accurately reflect the requested changes and do not inadvertently conflict with the intended scope of the agreement.

PROPERTY PROTECTION SYSTEMS

LOCATION: 002 BUILDING: 001
COVERAGE: Additional Insured by Contract
FORM: BPF 12 09 EDITION: 01 20 LIMIT: $300,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to Additional Insured by Contract at Location 002, Building 001, subject to the $300,000 limit and $5,000 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 12 09 edition 01 20 must be read with the premises schedule and the Status Grant valuation entry.
- D. The carrier's evaluation of the risk and the subsequent premium calculation heavily rely upon the presence and functionality of the property protection systems detailed in the application. These systems include automatic sprinklers, central station fire alarms, and monitored security arrays.
- E. The policyholder is obligated to maintain these systems in complete working order throughout the policy period. Routine maintenance, testing, and necessary repairs must be conducted in accordance with the manufacturer's specifications and industry standards.
- F. If a scheduled protection system becomes impaired or is intentionally taken offline for maintenance, the policyholder must notify the carrier immediately. The carrier may require the implementation of temporary safeguards, such as a fire watch, until the system is restored.
- G. Failure to maintain the required systems or to notify the carrier of an impairment may result in the suspension of coverage for specific perils. For example, if a sprinkler system is disabled without notice, indemnity for fire damage may be jeopardized.
- H. The carrier may mandate periodic certifications from qualified contractors to verify the operational status of critical systems. The policyholder must secure these certifications and provide copies to the carrier upon request.
- I. If the policyholder plans to alter, upgrade, or remove a scheduled protection system, advance written notice must be submitted to the carrier. The carrier will evaluate the proposed changes and determine if a premium adjustment or policy modification is necessary.
- J. In buildings where the policyholder is a tenant and does not control the central protection systems, the obligation is limited to maintaining the components within their leased space and promptly reporting any known building-wide impairments to the landlord.
- K. The presence of a protection system does not guarantee that a loss will be entirely prevented. The policyholder must still exercise reasonable care to mitigate hazards and protect the premises.
- L. If a loss occurs and the investigation reveals that a protection system was intentionally disabled by the policyholder prior to the event, the carrier may deny the claim based on a breach of these specific conditions.
- M. These requirements apply specifically to the systems identified during the underwriting process and noted on the declarations or protective safeguards schedule.

LOCATION: 001 BUILDING: 002
COVERAGE: PFAS Exclusion
FORM: BPF 14 19 EDITION: 01 20 LIMIT: $50,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to PFAS Exclusion at Location 001, Building 002, subject to the $50,000 limit and $10,000 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 14 19 edition 01 20 must be read with the premises schedule and the Exclusion Applies valuation entry.
- D. This document establishes the foundational administrative framework governing the relationship between the carrier and the policyholder. The provisions contained herein apply universally across all attached schedules, coverage parts, and amendatory documents unless explicitly superseded by a specific endorsement.
- E. The declarations pages outline the specific parameters of the agreement, including the designated named insured, the active policy period, and the scheduled premises. Any modifications to these foundational facts must be memorialized in a formal written endorsement issued by the carrier.
- F. The carrier relies upon the accuracy of the representations made during the application process. Material misstatements or omissions regarding the nature of the operations, the condition of the premises, or prior claims history may jeopardize the availability of indemnity.
- G. Premium calculations are based upon the exposure metrics and classification assignments documented in the rating schedules. The carrier retains the authority to adjust these calculations if subsequent inspections or audits reveal discrepancies between the reported exposures and the actual operations.
- H. The policyholder may cancel this agreement by providing advance written notification to the carrier or its authorized representative. The notification must specify the future date upon which the cancellation is to become effective.
- I. If the carrier initiates cancellation, written notification will be dispatched to the last known mailing address of the named insured. The number of days of advance notice provided will comply with the statutory requirements of the jurisdiction in which the primary premises are located.
- J. Upon termination of the agreement, any unearned premium will be calculated and refunded in accordance with the prevailing regulatory guidelines. A pro-rata calculation method will generally apply unless the policyholder initiates the cancellation, in which case a short-rate penalty may be assessed.
- K. No assignment of rights or delegation of duties under this agreement is valid without the express written consent of the carrier. However, in the event of the death of an individual named insured, rights may temporarily transfer to a legal representative acting within the scope of their duties.
- L. If any provision of this agreement conflicts with the statutes of the state wherein the primary premises are situated, the provision is automatically amended to conform to the minimum requirements of those statutes.
- M. The headings utilized throughout these documents are for navigational convenience only and do not independently expand, restrict, or modify the substantive language contained within the respective clauses.

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to Ordinary Payroll Limitation at Location 002, Building 002, subject to the $100,000 limit and $10,000 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 04 67 edition 04 24 must be read with the premises schedule and the 90 Days valuation entry.
- D. This section details the methodologies utilized to quantify financial indemnity following a covered impairment of scheduled property. The specific valuation basis applicable to a given location and building number is designated on the declarations or the corresponding property schedule.
- E. When replacement cost is indicated, the carrier determines the expenditure required to repair or replace the affected property with materials of comparable kind and quality. This determination is made without deduction for physical deterioration or obsolescence.
- F. Indemnity under the replacement cost method is contingent upon the actual completion of repairs or replacement. If the policyholder elects not to rebuild or replace, the settlement will default to the actual cash value of the property at the time of the event.
- G. Actual cash value calculations incorporate a deduction for depreciation, reflecting the age, condition, and remaining useful life of the property immediately prior to the impairment. This method applies automatically when replacement cost is not explicitly scheduled.
- H. If an agreed value provision is active for a specific premises, the carrier suspends the standard coinsurance requirements for the duration of the policy period. The scheduled limit is accepted as the agreed valuation for the purposes of total loss settlement.
- I. Coinsurance provisions require the policyholder to maintain limits of insurance equal to or exceeding a specified percentage of the property's total value. Failure to meet this threshold results in a proportional reduction of the final settlement amount.
- J. The deductible amount scheduled on the declarations represents the policyholder's retained risk for each separate event. The carrier applies the deductible to the total calculated loss before comparing the result against the applicable limit of insurance.
- K. In scenarios involving multiple scheduled coverages affected by a single event, the highest applicable deductible will be applied once to the aggregate loss. Separate deductibles are not stacked unless explicitly mandated by an attached endorsement.
- L. If a dispute arises regarding the precise quantification of the loss, either party may invoke the formal appraisal process. Each party selects an impartial valuation expert, and those experts jointly select a neutral umpire to resolve any remaining differences.
- M. The appraisal process is strictly limited to determining the monetary value of the loss and cannot be utilized to resolve disputes regarding the applicability of coverage, exclusions, or policy conditions.

D. Prompt notification of any event that may result in a claim is a fundamental condition precedent to receiving indemnity under this agreement. The policyholder must alert the carrier or its authorized representative as soon as practicable after discovering the impairment or liability exposure.

E. The notification must include comprehensive details regarding the time, place, and circumstances of the event. Furthermore, the policyholder must identify any injured parties and potential witnesses, providing contact information where available.

F. In the context of property impairment, the policyholder must take immediate and reasonable steps to protect the remaining property from subsequent harm. The carrier will reimburse reasonable expenses incurred for this temporary protection, subject to overall policy limits.

G. The policyholder must separate damaged from undamaged property, allowing the carrier's representatives to conduct a thorough inspection. Detailed inventories of the affected items, including quantities, acquisition costs, and estimated replacement values, must be prepared.

H. If the event involves suspected criminal activity, such as theft or vandalism, the policyholder must promptly notify the appropriate law enforcement authorities. A copy of the official police report must be secured and forwarded to the carrier.

I. The carrier reserves the authority to require the policyholder to submit to an examination under oath regarding the circumstances of the claim. This examination may be conducted multiple times if reasonably necessary to establish the facts.

J. Within the timeframe specified by the carrier, the policyholder must submit a signed, sworn proof of loss document. This document formalizes the claim and includes specific assertions regarding the ownership of the property, the cause of the event, and the total amount requested.

K. In liability scenarios, the policyholder must immediately forward any demands, notices, summonses, or legal papers received in connection with the event. The carrier requires these documents to evaluate the exposure and organize an appropriate defense.

L. The policyholder must cooperate fully with the carrier in the investigation, settlement, or defense of any claim or suit. This includes attending hearings, assisting in securing evidence, and facilitating the attendance of witnesses.

M. No voluntary payments, assumed obligations, or incurred expenses may be made by the policyholder without the prior written consent of the carrier, except for immediate medical aid at the time of an incident.

BUSINESSOWNERS COVERAGE FORM - BUILDING PROVISIONS

Scheduled Premises And Coverage

This form applies to Building at Location 001, Building 001, subject to the $60,000 limit and $1,000 deductible shown in the declarations.

Form BPF 00 13 edition 12 23 must be read with the premises schedule and the Replacement Cost valuation entry.

SECTION I - INSURED STRUCTURE PARAMETERS

The provisions detailed in this section apply exclusively to the scheduled architectural structures identified on the declarations page. Any associated outbuildings require separate scheduling to receive corresponding protection under this agreement.

Protection extends to the foundational elements, exterior walls, and permanent roofing systems of the described premises. Temporary structures erected during renovation phases are not considered part of the permanent architectural structure.

A scheduled limit of $60,000 applies to the primary structure located at the designated premises. This monetary cap represents the absolute maximum available for any single event affecting the listed architectural asset.

Additions under construction, alteration, or repair share the primary structure limit unless an alternate endorsement modifies this constraint. Building materials situated within one hundred feet of the premises are included in this provision.

SECTION II - APPURTENANT INSTALLATIONS AND FIXTURES

Permanent fixtures attached to the interior or exterior of the scheduled structure fall under the primary building protection parameters. This includes integrated climate control systems, hardwired illumination, and built-in commercial appliances.

Exterior glass, including storefront windows and structural skylights, shares the primary building limit rather than maintaining a separate sublimit. Damage to these fragile elements must result from a sudden external force.

Flooring materials permanently affixed to the underlying structural slab or joist system are treated as part of the building. Temporary floor coverings or floating floors remain classified as movable commercial assets.

Fire suppression systems and integrated security networks bolted to the structural framework are evaluated alongside the main building components. Malfunctions of these systems do not constitute an insured event without external impact.

SECTION III - VALUATION AND COINSURANCE APPLICATION

Settlement for structural destruction utilizes a Replacement Cost valuation methodology. This approach requires the policyholder to actually repair or rebuild the damaged structure before the final settlement amount is fully disbursed.

Until structural repairs are substantially completed, the initial disbursement will not exceed the depreciated market value of the affected components. The remaining balance becomes available upon submission of final construction invoices.

An 80% coinsurance requirement governs the relationship between the carried limit and the actual replacement value of the structure. Failing to maintain this proportional limit will result in a reduced settlement calculation.

If the structure is appraised at a value significantly higher than the scheduled limit at the time of the event, the resulting penalty is calculated by dividing the carried limit by the required limit.

SECTION IV - DEDUCTIBLE OPERATION

A standard deductible of $1,000 applies to each distinct event impacting the scheduled structure. This amount is subtracted from the final adjusted settlement rather than from the total scheduled limit.

When a single event damages multiple scheduled structures at the same location, only the highest applicable deductible will be enforced. This prevents the compounding of financial retention for a unified incident.

The policyholder must absorb the deductible amount before any funds are released by the underwriting entity. Deductibles cannot be waived or absorbed into the final contractor invoices under any circumstances.

If the total assessed damage falls below the $1,000 threshold, the underwriting entity holds no financial obligation for the event. The policyholder retains full responsibility for these minor structural repairs.

SECTION V - EXCLUDED PERILS AND STRUCTURAL HAZARDS

Gradual deterioration, structural settling, and foundational cracking are strictly excluded from this protection agreement. These issues are considered routine maintenance obligations rather than sudden, unforeseen incidents requiring financial intervention.

Infiltration of groundwater through basement walls, foundational slabs, or subterranean utility conduits is not protected under this section. Any resulting interior damage must be addressed at the sole expense of the policyholder.

Infestations by insects, rodents, or other vermin that compromise the structural integrity of the building are entirely excluded. Routine pest control remains the administrative responsibility of the property owner or tenant.

Faulty architectural design or substandard construction materials utilized during the original building phase do not constitute an insured event. Resulting structural failures are excluded regardless of when the deficiency is discovered.

SECTION VI - DEBRIS CLEARANCE AND SITE REMEDIATION

The costs associated with removing structural debris following an insured event are included within the primary building limit. This provision does not create an additional monetary allowance above the scheduled maximum.

Debris removal expenses must be reported to the underwriting entity within ninety days of the initiating incident. Failure to document these specific costs may result in their exclusion from the final settlement.

Extraction of pollutants or hazardous materials from the soil or water surrounding the premises is not covered under the standard debris clearance provision. Specialized environmental remediation requires distinct endorsement scheduling.

Costs to demolish undamaged portions of the structure, even when mandated by local municipal ordinances, are not automatically included. Such expenses require specific ordinance or law scheduling on the declarations page.

SECTION VII - CLASSIFICATION AND OPERATIONAL HAZARDS

The scheduled structure is currently rated under class code 4167, which designates the primary operational hazard as a Restaurant or cafe. Any deviation from this operational profile must be reported immediately.

Utilizing the premises for manufacturing, chemical processing, or extensive industrial storage invalidates the current rating profile. Such changes materially alter the risk and may result in the suspension of structural protection.

Installation of commercial cooking equipment must comply with all local municipal fire codes and ventilation requirements. Failure to maintain mandatory suppression systems significantly jeopardizes the protection status of the building.

The underwriting entity reserves the right to inspect the premises to verify alignment with the designated operational classification. Discrepancies between the observed operations and the scheduled class code will prompt a rating adjustment.

BUSINESS INCOME AND EXTRA EXPENSE CONDITIONS

Scheduled Premises And Coverage

This form applies to Business Income and Extra Expense at Location 001, Building 002, subject to the $125,000 limit and $10,000 deductible shown in the declarations.

Form BPF 04 39 edition 12 23 must be read with the premises schedule and the Actual Loss Sustained valuation entry.

ARTICLE I - INCOME DISRUPTION PARAMETERS

This section governs the financial intervention provided when standard commercial operations are involuntarily suspended. The suspension must directly result from a sudden, unforeseen incident impacting the scheduled premises.

A maximum limit of $125,000 is available to address the aggregate financial impact of the operational disruption. This cap encompasses both the lost operational revenue and any extraordinary mitigation expenses incurred.

The protection is designed to replicate the net operational profit that would have been realized had the incident not occurred. It is not intended to improve the financial standing of the enterprise.

Partial operational suspensions, where the enterprise continues to function at a reduced capacity, are also addressed. The financial intervention is proportionally adjusted to reflect the partial continuation of commercial activities.

ARTICLE II - RESTORATION PERIOD operation

The restoration period commences exactly seventy-two hours after the destructive incident forces the operational suspension. This initial waiting timeframe serves as a temporal retention absorbed entirely by the policyholder.

The timeframe concludes when the scheduled premises should reasonably be repaired, rebuilt, or replaced with diligent effort. Unnecessary delays caused by the policyholder or their chosen contractors will not extend this period.

If the enterprise relocates to a permanent alternate facility, the restoration period terminates upon the commencement of operations at the new site. The underwriting entity does not subsidize indefinite transitional phases.

Expiration of the overarching policy period does not prematurely terminate an active restoration period. The financial intervention continues until the reasonable repair timeline is fully exhausted or the limit is reached.

ARTICLE III - CONTINUING OPERATIONAL EXPENSES

Necessary operating expenses that must continue during the operational suspension are factored into the financial intervention. This includes mandatory lease payments, property taxes, and essential utility maintenance costs.

Ordinary payroll expenses for non-essential personnel are not automatically included in the continuing expense calculation. Specialized scheduling is required to maintain the wages of standard employees during a prolonged closure.

Debt service obligations, including mortgage interest and equipment loan payments, are recognized as valid continuing expenses. The principal reduction portion of these payments, however, is excluded from the calculation.

Expenses that naturally cease during the operational suspension, such as raw material purchases or outgoing shipping costs, are deducted from the projected revenue. The settlement focuses strictly on unavoidable financial obligations.

ARTICLE IV - EXTRAORDINARY MITIGATION COSTS

Extra expense provisions address the necessary costs incurred to minimize the duration of the operational suspension. These funds are utilized to expedite repairs or facilitate a temporary relocation of commercial activities.

Renting temporary office space, leasing substitute equipment, or paying expedited shipping premiums for replacement parts qualify as extraordinary mitigation costs. These expenditures must demonstrably reduce the overall income disruption.

Mitigation expenses that exceed the projected savings in lost revenue are not supported by this agreement. The underwriting entity requires a clear financial justification for all extraordinary expenditures.

Costs associated with repairing the physical structure or replacing destroyed inventory are not classified as extra expenses. Those primary property repairs are addressed under their respective asset protection sections.

ARTICLE V - DEDUCTIBLE AND VALUATION METHODOLOGY

A $10,000 deductible applies to the aggregate financial intervention for the income disruption event. This monetary retention is subtracted from the final calculated settlement after all lost revenue and extra expenses are tallied.

The valuation methodology utilizes an Actual Loss Sustained approach, meaning the settlement is based purely on documented financial realities. Projected future growth or speculative revenue streams are entirely excluded from the calculation.

An 80% coinsurance requirement mandates that the scheduled limit adequately reflects the projected annual revenue of the enterprise. Substantial underreporting of operational income will trigger a proportional reduction in the final settlement.

The underwriting entity will review historical financial data to establish the baseline operational revenue. This retrospective analysis ensures the Actual Loss Sustained calculation accurately mirrors the established trajectory of the enterprise.

ARTICLE VI - DOCUMENTATION AND FINANCIAL RECORDS

The policyholder must provide comprehensive financial documentation to substantiate the income disruption claim. This includes historical tax returns, detailed profit and loss statements, and daily sales ledgers from the preceding year.

Failure to maintain accurate and legible financial records may severely compromise the ability to calculate the Actual Loss Sustained. The underwriting entity relies entirely on these documents to verify the financial impact.

Invoices for all extraordinary mitigation expenses must be preserved and submitted for review. Undocumented cash expenditures or vague operational estimates will not be factored into the final settlement calculation.

The underwriting entity reserves the right to employ independent forensic accountants to analyze the submitted financial records. The policyholder must fully cooperate with these external auditors during the evaluation process.

ARTICLE VII - CONTRACTOR CLASSIFICATION IMPACT

The enterprise is classified under class code 5531, representing a Contractor - interior finishing operation. The revenue projections and continuing expenses must align with the standard financial profile of this specific industry.

Income derived from unrelated operational activities, such as retail sales or heavy structural construction, is not protected under this classification. The financial intervention is strictly tied to the scheduled interior finishing operations.

Seasonal fluctuations typical of the interior finishing industry are incorporated into the baseline revenue calculation. The underwriting entity recognizes that operational income may not be evenly distributed throughout the calendar year.

If the enterprise frequently operates at off-site client locations, the income disruption must stem directly from damage at the primary scheduled premises. Disruption caused by damage at a temporary job site is not covered.

EQUIPMENT BREAKDOWN COVERAGE

Scheduled Premises And Coverage

This form applies to Equipment Breakdown at Location 002, Building 002, subject to the $125,000 limit and $10,000 deductible shown in the declarations.

Form BPF 04 62 edition 12 23 must be read with the premises schedule and the Replacement Cost valuation entry.

SECTION I - INSURING AGREEMENT AND BREAKDOWN EVENTS

This policy segment provides financial reimbursement when scheduled machinery experiences a sudden and accidental mechanical failure. The failure must necessitate immediate repair or replacement to restore operational capacity.

An eligible breakdown event involves physical deformation or electrical arcing that impairs the primary function of the machinery. Gradual wear, routine deterioration, and expected depletion of consumable parts do not constitute an eligible event.

The protection applies exclusively to items situated at the described premises identified in the declarations. Portable machinery removed from the scheduled location requires separate endorsement approval before an incident occurs.

We evaluate each reported incident to confirm whether an internal flaw or external operational stress caused the malfunction. Incidents stemming from software viruses or unauthorized programming modifications fall outside the scope of this provision.

The insured entity must suspend operations of the impaired machinery immediately upon detecting abnormal performance. Continued operation of compromised machinery voids the reimbursement eligibility for any subsequent exacerbation of the initial damage.

SECTION II - DIAGNOSTIC COSTS AND EXPEDITING EXPENSES

Following an eligible mechanical failure, this form allocates funds toward necessary diagnostic procedures. We reimburse the reasonable fees charged by qualified technicians to dismantle the machinery and identify the precise origin of the malfunction.

If rapid restoration of business operations is critical, we cover reasonable expediting expenses. These expenses include premium transportation charges for replacement components and overtime wages paid to specialized repair personnel.

Expediting expenses must directly reduce the duration of the operational suspension. We do not reimburse premium charges that merely provide convenience without measurably accelerating the return to normal business activities.

The maximum allocation for diagnostic and expediting costs remains subject to the overall limit shown for this coverage. These supplementary payments do not increase the total available funds for a single occurrence.

SECTION III - UTILITY INTERRUPTION AND SPOILAGE

Protection extends to consequential spoilage of perishable stock resulting from a covered failure of refrigeration equipment. The affected stock must reside at the described premises and belong to the named insured or be held in their care.

If a mechanical failure disrupts the supply of electricity, water, or telecommunications to the premises, we evaluate the resulting financial impact. The interruption must originate from equipment owned by the utility provider and physically connected to the insured location.

A waiting period applies to all utility interruption claims before reimbursement calculations begin. The duration of the outage must exceed the minimum timeframes specified in the schedule to trigger the associated business income provisions.

Spoilage valuation relies on the actual wholesale cost of the perishable goods at the time of the temperature fluctuation. We do not reimburse anticipated retail profit margins or promotional value associated with the ruined inventory.

The insured must maintain active temperature monitoring logs for all commercial refrigeration units. Failure to produce these logs upon our request may compromise the eligibility of a spoilage claim following a compressor malfunction.

SECTION IV - PRESSURE SYSTEMS AND MECHANICAL FAILURE

Boilers and fired pressure vessels represent a distinct category of covered property under this endorsement. An eligible incident involving these systems requires an actual rupture or collapse of the pressure-containing boundaries.

Leaking valves, failing gaskets, and deteriorating safety mechanisms do not qualify as a rupture or collapse. Preventative maintenance and routine replacement of these components remain the sole financial responsibility of the insured entity.

We reserve the right to conduct periodic safety inspections of all pressurized systems located at the described premises. Our inspection activities do not constitute a warranty regarding the operational safety or regulatory compliance of the equipment.

If our inspector discovers a dangerous condition, we may immediately suspend protection for that specific piece of machinery. We will deliver written notice of the suspension, and protection will only resume once the hazard is fully corrected.

SECTION V - LIMITS, DEDUCTIBLES, AND VALUATION

The maximum reimbursement for any single mechanical failure occurrence is the $125,000 limit displayed in the declarations. This cap encompasses all direct property damage, expediting expenses, and resulting spoilage associated with the event.

A $10,000 deductible applies to each separate breakdown occurrence before any funds are disbursed. The insured must absorb this initial financial burden, and we subtract the deductible amount from the final adjusted loss calculation.

We utilize a Replacement Cost valuation method when settling claims for destroyed machinery. This method provides funds for a new item of comparable functional capacity without applying deductions for physical depreciation or technological obsolescence.

The Agreed Value coinsurance provision requires the insured to maintain adequate limits relative to the total machinery value. If the limits fall below the agreed threshold, a proportional penalty will reduce the final settlement amount.

Business income calculations rely on the Ordinary Payroll 90 Days basis specified in the schedule. The classification code 7391 for Property management determines the baseline risk profile used during the underwriting and premium calculation process.

SECTION VI - COVERED EQUIPMENT RECORDS AND MAINTENANCE

The insured must preserve comprehensive maintenance records for all scheduled machinery throughout the policy term. These documents must detail routine servicing, component replacements, and any diagnostic evaluations performed by external contractors.

Following a reported incident, we require immediate access to the historical maintenance logs. Incomplete or missing documentation may hinder our ability to distinguish between an accidental failure and gradual deterioration caused by neglect.

All repairs must utilize components that meet or exceed the original manufacturer specifications. Installing substandard parts or utilizing unauthorized modifications will void future protection for the affected machinery system.

If the insured replaces a scheduled piece of equipment during the policy period, they must notify us within thirty days. The newly acquired machinery receives temporary protection until we issue a formal endorsement updating the premises schedule.

We maintain the authority to request independent engineering assessments following complex mechanical failures. The findings of these independent assessments will guide our final determination regarding the origin of the malfunction and the appropriate settlement amount.

EMPLOYEE DISHONESTY OPTIONAL COVERAGE

Scheduled Premises And Coverage

This form applies to Employee Dishonesty at Location 001, Building 001, subject to the $175,000 limit and $2,500 deductible shown in the declarations.

Form BPF 15 18 edition 06 21 must be read with the premises schedule and the Blanket Limit valuation entry.

SECTION I - SCOPE OF COVERED EMPLOYEE ACTS

This optional coverage addresses financial losses stemming directly from fraudulent or dishonest acts committed by active personnel. The perpetrator must act with the manifest intent to cause the insured entity a financial deficit.

The dishonest act must also aim to secure an improper financial benefit for the employee or a designated third party. Benefits do not include standard salaries, commissions, bonuses, promotions, or other legitimate employment compensation.

We recognize an employee as any natural person currently compensated directly by the insured entity via payroll. Independent contractors, temporary agency staff, and external consultants do not meet the definition of an employee under this form.

The fraudulent activity must occur during the active policy period or within the designated retrospective window. Actions executed before the individual officially commenced employment or after their termination date fall entirely outside the coverage parameters.

Collusion among multiple employees constitutes a single occurrence regardless of how many individuals participated in the scheme. We apply the occurrence limit once to the combined total of the misappropriated funds or property.

SECTION II - DISCOVERY TRIGGERS AND REPORTING

Protection relies on the discovery principle, meaning the insured must become aware of the fraudulent activity during the active policy term. Discovery occurs when a corporate officer acquires sufficient information to reasonably assume a theft has transpired.

Suspicion of minor accounting discrepancies does not constitute discovery until concrete evidence points toward intentional employee deception. Once discovery occurs, the insured must provide formal written notification to our claims department within sixty days.

Following the initial notification, the insured has six months to submit a comprehensive sworn proof of loss. This document must detail the specific dates, involved personnel, and exact financial calculations surrounding the misappropriation.

We grant an extended discovery period of one year immediately following the cancellation of this policy. This extension only applies to fraudulent acts that occurred before the cancellation date but remained hidden from management.

Failure to adhere to the strict reporting timelines may jeopardize the settlement process. We require prompt notification to facilitate immediate internal investigations and maximize the potential for recovering the stolen assets.

SECTION III - INVENTORY SHORTAGES AND COMPUTATION

We do not reimburse losses that rely solely on an inventory computation or a profit and loss calculation. The insured must present independent corroborating evidence demonstrating that a specific employee actively stole the missing property.

Routine shrinkage, unexplained disappearance, and administrative counting errors frequently cause discrepancies in warehouse records. These natural variations in stock levels do not trigger the dishonesty provisions without concrete proof of malicious internal activity.

Once independent evidence establishes that an employee committed theft, inventory records may help determine the total quantity of stolen goods. However, the records themselves cannot serve as the primary proof that a dishonest act occurred.

The valuation of stolen physical property relies on the actual replacement cost at the time of discovery. We do not compensate for potential retail markups, lost sales revenue, or the sentimental value of the missing items.

SECTION IV - PRIOR KNOWLEDGE AND CANCELLATION OF EMPLOYEE STATUS

Protection for any specific individual terminates immediately upon management discovering their involvement in any dishonest act. This cancellation applies even if the prior dishonest act occurred during previous employment or involved minor theft.

If corporate officers possess prior knowledge of an applicant's fraudulent history, this policy will not cover their future actions. The insured entity assumes full financial responsibility when knowingly hiring individuals with documented records of workplace theft.

We reserve the right to cancel coverage for any specific employee by delivering a written notice to the named insured. This targeted cancellation takes effect thirty days after the notice is mailed to the primary business address.

The cancellation of an individual's coverage does not affect the protection provided for the rest of the workforce. The policy remains active for all other personnel who maintain a clean record of ethical workplace behavior.

SECTION V - SEPARATION FROM ORDINARY PROPERTY LOSS

Employee dishonesty represents a distinct peril separate from burglary, robbery, or external theft. Ordinary property provisions explicitly exclude losses caused by individuals entrusted with the property, necessitating this specialized optional endorsement.

If an external entity breaches the premises and steals property, the standard commercial property form responds to the incident. This dishonesty form only activates when the perpetrator is an active member of the insured workforce.

In scenarios involving both internal employees and external accomplices, this form covers the entire coordinated theft. The involvement of an active employee shifts the primary classification of the event from external burglary to internal dishonesty.

We require the insured to maintain robust internal controls and separation of duties to mitigate the risk of internal theft. Failure to implement basic accounting safeguards may influence the underwriting terms during the next renewal cycle.

SECTION VI - APPLICATION OF LIMITS AND VALUATION

The maximum recovery for a single coordinated theft scheme is the $175,000 limit indicated in the schedule. This cap applies regardless of the number of years the scheme persisted or the number of employees involved.

A $2,500 deductible applies to each separate discovery of employee theft before we issue any reimbursement. The insured entity must absorb this initial deficit, which we subtract from the final verified loss amount.

We utilize a Blanket Limit valuation approach, meaning the scheduled maximum applies uniformly across all active personnel. The insured does not need to specify individual names or positions to secure the designated level of protection.

The Agreed Value coinsurance provision ensures that the limit remains fixed without proportional penalties during the settlement process. The business income basis relies on Ordinary Payroll 90 Days to calculate any associated operational disruptions.

The classification code 4167 for Restaurant or cafe operations establishes the baseline risk parameters for this endorsement. The unique cash-handling exposures of this classification directly influence the premium calculations and required internal control standards.

ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE COVERAGE

Scheduled Premises And Coverage

This form applies to Accounts Receivable at Location 002, Building 001, subject to the $175,000 limit and $500 deductible shown in the declarations.

Form BPF 04 26 edition 06 21 must be read with the premises schedule and the Scheduled Limit valuation entry.

SECTION I - INSURING AGREEMENT FOR OUTSTANDING BALANCES

This coverage segment addresses the financial deficit created when the insured cannot collect outstanding customer balances. The inability to collect must stem directly from the physical destruction of the primary accounts receivable records.

The destruction of the records must result from a covered loss event occurring at the described premises. If an excluded peril destroys the documentation, this endorsement will not reimburse the uncollectible customer debts.

We reimburse the principal amount of the outstanding balances that remain uncollectible after exhaustive recovery efforts. We also cover the interest charges on short-term loans secured specifically to offset the delayed collection of these accounts.

The insured must demonstrate a consistent history of extending credit to customers and tracking those obligations. Businesses operating strictly on a cash-on-delivery basis do not possess the necessary exposure to utilize this specific coverage form.

We calculate the baseline outstanding amount by analyzing the historical collection trends from the previous twelve months. This historical average helps establish a reasonable expectation of the balances present on the day the records were destroyed.

SECTION II - RECONSTRUCTION OF RECORDS

Beyond uncollectible balances, we allocate funds to cover the physical reconstruction of the damaged ledger documents. This includes the cost of blank materials, specialized transcription services, and overtime wages for administrative personnel.

The reconstruction effort must utilize secondary sources such as shipping manifests, bank deposits, and scattered digital fragments. We reimburse the reasonable expenses incurred while piecing together these alternative data sources to rebuild the customer ledger.

If the records are only partially damaged, the insured must make every effort to salvage the legible portions. We will fund specialized document restoration services if those techniques prove more economical than complete manual reconstruction.

The reconstruction expenses must directly reduce the total amount of uncollectible balances claimed under this endorsement. We do not fund administrative rebuilding efforts that offer no measurable benefit to the overall debt recovery process.

SECTION III - INCREASED COLLECTION EXPENSE

The destruction of primary ledgers often complicates the standard debt collection workflow. We reimburse the increased collection expenses necessary to pursue outstanding balances without the benefit of complete historical documentation.

These increased expenses may include fees paid to external collection agencies or specialized legal counsel. The external professionals must focus specifically on recovering the debts obscured by the physical destruction of the primary records.

The insured must authorize the collection agents to negotiate reasonable settlements with customers who dispute their undocumented balances. We will cover the difference between the negotiated settlement and the estimated original debt amount.

Any funds successfully recovered through these increased collection efforts belong to us until we recoup our initial settlement payout. Once we recover our expenses, any surplus funds revert directly to the insured entity.

SECTION IV - DUPLICATE INVOICES AND DATA BACKUP

The insured must maintain a rigorous protocol for generating duplicate invoices and storing them securely. We require these backup documents to reside in a separate building located at least one hundred feet from the primary premises.

If the business utilizes digital accounting systems, daily off-site data backups satisfy the duplicate record requirement. The digital backups must remain accessible and uncorrupted following a physical disaster at the main operational facility.

Failure to maintain the required duplicate records or digital backups significantly alters the settlement parameters. We may apply a substantial penalty or deny the claim entirely if the insured neglects these mandatory administrative safeguards.

When duplicate records survive a disaster, the insured must utilize them immediately to resume normal billing cycles. This prompt action minimizes the disruption to cash flow and reduces the overall magnitude of the uncollectible balances.

SECTION V - EXCLUDED BOOKKEEPING ERRORS AND OMISSIONS

This endorsement explicitly excludes financial deficits resulting from routine bookkeeping errors, mathematical miscalculations, or administrative omissions. The protection only activates following sudden physical damage to the ledger documents.

We do not reimburse losses discovered solely during a routine financial audit or an annual inventory reconciliation. The insured must identify a specific destructive event that compromised the integrity of the accounting records.

Intentional alteration or falsification of the records by the insured or their partners falls outside the coverage parameters. Fraudulent accounting practices void the protection and may trigger immediate cancellation of the entire commercial policy.

We do not cover balances owed by customers who declare bankruptcy or default for reasons unrelated to the destroyed records. The standard risk of doing business and extending credit remains the responsibility of the insured.

SECTION VI - SCHEDULED LIMITS AND DEDUCTIBLES

The maximum recovery for uncollectible balances and reconstruction costs is the $175,000 limit displayed in the schedule. This comprehensive cap governs the total payout for any single event that destroys the accounting documentation.

A $500 deductible applies to each separate occurrence before we distribute any reimbursement funds. The insured must absorb this initial financial impact, and we will subtract the deductible from the final verified settlement calculation.

We apply a Scheduled Limit valuation basis, meaning the protection applies specifically to the premises listed in the declarations. Records stored at unscheduled locations do not benefit from this endorsement unless explicitly added by modification.

The Agreed Value coinsurance provision stabilizes the settlement process by removing proportional penalties related to fluctuating ledger totals. The business income basis incorporates Ordinary Payroll 90 Days to address the operational delays caused by the missing records.

The classification code 5531 for Contractor - interior finishing establishes the baseline operational profile for this coverage. The specific billing cycles and credit practices associated with this classification directly inform the underwriting guidelines and premium structures.

OUTDOOR PROPERTY EXTENSION

Scheduled Premises And Coverage

This form applies to Outdoor Property at Location 001, Building 002, subject to the $200,000 limit and $1,000 deductible shown in the declarations.

Form BPF 04 28 edition 12 23 must be read with the premises schedule and the Replacement Cost valuation entry.

SECTION I - COVERAGE APPLICATION

The provisions of this extension apply exclusively to exterior items situated at the described premises. Coverage is provided for physical destruction originating from external events.

Application of this section is tethered to the locations scheduled on the declarations. If a building is not listed, the surrounding exterior items remain unaddressed by this extension.

The maximum reimbursement for any single event is capped at the scheduled $200,000 limit. This amount represents the total available funds for all affected exterior items combined.

Contractor - interior finishing operations classified under code 5531 are recognized as the primary business activities. Exterior materials related to these operations fall under the scope of this extension.

SECTION II - COVERED PROPERTY TYPES

Eligible items include exterior signage, whether attached to the building or freestanding. These signs must be owned by the named insured or under their contractual responsibility.

Fencing structures surrounding the scheduled premises are fully incorporated into this coverage. Both wood and metal barriers qualify for reimbursement following a structural failure.

Landscaping elements such as shrubs, plants, and trees are recognized as covered items. However, their inclusion is restricted to specific catastrophic events rather than natural decay or disease.

Exterior communication equipment, including satellite dishes and radio antennas, is protected against sudden physical impact. Routine weathering or gradual deterioration of these devices is not considered a valid trigger.

SECTION III - EXCLUDED PROPERTY

Vehicles intended for public road use are strictly excluded from this exterior extension. Any destruction to business-owned automobiles must be addressed through a separate commercial auto policy.

The underlying land, soil, and paved surfaces such as parking lots are not eligible for reimbursement. Structural shifts in the earth are explicitly outside the scope of this provision.

Water features, including exterior fountains and retaining ponds, are omitted from the protected property list. Contamination or structural failure of these features will not yield a settlement payment.

Inventory temporarily stored outside the building is not considered outdoor property under this specific extension. Such items must be evaluated under the primary business personal property provisions.

SECTION IV - DEBRIS REMOVAL PROVISIONS

Following a covered event, the cost to clear destroyed exterior property is included. This clearing expense is absorbed within the overall extension limit rather than added to it.

If a windstorm uproots trees or demolishes fencing, the labor required to haul away the remnants is covered. Invoices from debris removal contractors must be submitted for review.

The debris removal allowance does not extend to environmental cleanup or soil remediation. Hazardous materials deposited by the storm must be handled under separate pollution provisions.

A specialized allowance is provided if a third-party vehicle crashes into the exterior property. The cost to remove the vehicle itself is excluded, but the resulting structural debris is covered.

SECTION V - PREMISES BOUNDARY LIMITATIONS

To qualify for reimbursement, the affected items must reside within one hundred feet of the primary scheduled structure. Items located beyond this perimeter are considered off-premises.

The boundary measurement begins at the outermost exterior wall of the described building. Any fencing or signage situated past the one-hundred-foot mark is entirely excluded.

If the named insured acquires additional adjacent land, the boundary limitation remains tied to the original structure. Extensions to the perimeter require a formal endorsement and premium adjustment.

Items temporarily removed from the premises for repair or restoration forfeit their status under this extension. The property must remain physically present at the scheduled location.

SECTION VI - VALUATION AND DEDUCTIBLE PROCEDURES

Losses to exterior property are settled using a Replacement Cost valuation method. This ensures that damaged items are repaired or replaced without deductions for physical depreciation.

An Agreed Value coinsurance provision applies to this extension, suspending the standard percentage-based penalty. The scheduled limit serves as the agreed maximum regardless of the total exterior property value.

A $1,000 deductible is applied to each separate event causing destruction to the exterior items. The named insured must absorb this initial monetary retention before any settlement funds are released.

If a single event damages both the primary building and the exterior property, only one deductible will be enforced. The highest applicable deductible amount will take precedence.

The 12 Months business income basis does not directly apply to the destruction of exterior property. Income losses must stem from damage to the primary operational structures.

All claims must be supported by photographic evidence of the damaged exterior items. Failure to document the scene prior to debris removal may jeopardize the settlement process.

The named insured is required to take reasonable steps to protect undamaged exterior property from further harm. Temporary bracing or covering expenses will be considered part of the total loss.

WATER BACK-UP AND SUMP OVERFLOW

Scheduled Premises And Coverage

This form applies to Water Back-Up at Location 002, Building 002, subject to the $235,000 limit and $1,000 deductible shown in the declarations.

Form BPF 04 91 edition 04 24 must be read with the premises schedule and the Scheduled Limit valuation entry.

SECTION I - INSURING AGREEMENT

This endorsement modifies the primary property provisions to include damage originating from specific water intrusion events. The coverage is strictly limited to the mechanisms described in this section.

We provide reimbursement for physical damage caused by water that reverses its normal flow. This includes liquids originating from municipal systems that enter the scheduled building.

The Scheduled Limit valuation dictates the maximum available settlement for these specific intrusion events. The overall building limit cannot be leveraged to supplement a water back-up shortfall.

A maximum reimbursement of $235,000 is established for any single intrusion event. This cap applies universally to all affected property within the described premises.

Property management operations under class code 7391 are the designated activities for this location. The water intrusion must affect property utilized in these specific management operations.

SECTION II - SUMP OVERFLOW EVENTS

Coverage is extended to damage resulting from the failure of a sump pump system. The overflow must breach the containment basin and spread into the interior building spaces.

Mechanical breakdown of the pump itself is not covered under this specific property extension. The provision only addresses the resulting water damage to the surrounding interior finishes.

Power outages that disable the sump system are considered valid triggers for this coverage. The resulting overflow is addressed even if the pump itself remains mechanically sound.

The named insured must maintain the sump system in working order prior to the event. Willful neglect or intentional disabling of the pump will void the overflow coverage.

SECTION III - SEWER BACK-UP TRIGGERS

Water that forces its way through municipal sewer lines and enters the building is an addressed peril. The intrusion must originate from outside the property boundaries.

Blockages within the public infrastructure that force wastewater into the scheduled premises will trigger reimbursement. The named insured is not required to prove municipal negligence to secure coverage.

If the blockage occurs within the private plumbing lines of the building, this specific extension does not apply. Internal plumbing failures are addressed under the primary property provisions.

Damage to inventory stored on lower levels or basements is fully eligible for reimbursement following a sewer reversal. The items must be elevated at least four inches from the floor.

SECTION IV - EXCLUDED MAINTENANCE FAILURES

Routine seepage through foundation walls is explicitly excluded from this water intrusion extension. Gradual moisture accumulation over time does not constitute a sudden back-up event.

Failing to repair known leaks in the internal plumbing system will invalidate this coverage. The named insured must address ongoing maintenance issues to preserve their settlement rights.

Water intrusion resulting from a compromised roof or poorly sealed windows is not considered a back-up. These events must be evaluated under the standard weather-related property clauses.

Flood waters originating from overflowing rivers or heavy rainfall accumulation are strictly excluded. Surface water inundation requires a separate specialized flood insurance contract.

SECTION V - BUSINESS INCOME IMPLICATIONS

If a water intrusion event forces a suspension of operations, the resulting economic consequence is evaluated. The primary income provisions are modified to recognize this specific peril.

An Ordinary Payroll 90 Days basis is applied to the income settlement calculations. Compensation for staff members will continue for a maximum of ninety days during the restoration.

The income coverage is subject to the same $235,000 cap as the physical damage. Both the property repairs and the revenue deficits draw from this single scheduled amount.

The restoration period begins immediately following the water intrusion event. The named insured must act swiftly to extract the water and mitigate further revenue loss.

SECTION VI - LIMITS AND DEDUCTIBLES

An Agreed Value coinsurance clause governs the settlement of these specific water claims. The scheduled limit is accepted as the maximum exposure without percentage-based penalties.

A $1,000 deductible must be absorbed by the named insured before any settlement funds are disbursed. This monetary retention applies to each separate and distinct water intrusion occurrence.

If multiple drains or sumps overflow simultaneously due to the same municipal failure, it is treated as one event. Only a single deductible will be enforced in this scenario.

The named insured must retain all invoices related to water extraction and drying services. These expenses are included within the scheduled limit and require strict documentation.

Any settlement obtained from the municipality responsible for the sewer failure must be shared. The insurer retains the right to pursue these third parties to recoup the disbursed funds.

HIRED AUTO AND NON-OWNED AUTO LIABILITY

Scheduled Premises And Coverage

This form applies to Hired and Non-Owned Auto at Location 001, Building 001, subject to the $275,000 limit and $10,000 deductible shown in the declarations.

Form BPF 04 47 edition 04 24 must be read with the premises schedule and the Liability Limit valuation entry.

SECTION I - LIABILITY EXTENSION

This endorsement expands the commercial liability framework to address specific automobile exposures. The coverage applies when the named insured utilizes vehicles it does not directly own.

Liability shielding is provided for bodily harm or property destruction caused by the operation of these vehicles. The incident must occur during the course of designated business activities.

Restaurant or cafe operations under class code 4167 dictate the scope of the covered activities. Delivery or catering transport related to this classification is the primary focus.

The Liability Limit valuation establishes the maximum boundary for any single vehicular incident. This cap encompasses both the settlement amounts and the associated legal defense costs.

A scheduled limit of $275,000 is available for each distinct accident involving a qualifying vehicle. This amount cannot be stacked or combined with other liability provisions.

SECTION II - HIRED AUTO DEFINITION

A hired automobile is defined as any motorized vehicle leased, rented, or borrowed by the named insured. The rental agreement must be executed in the name of the commercial entity.

Vehicles leased on a long-term basis exceeding six months are not considered hired autos under this section. Those vehicles must be scheduled on a primary commercial auto contract.

The coverage applies to the business entity itself, not the individual driver of the rented vehicle. The driver must seek personal indemnity through the rental agency or their own policy.

Physical damage to the rented vehicle itself is strictly excluded from this liability extension. The named insured is responsible for securing separate collision coverage for the borrowed asset.

SECTION III - NON-OWNED AUTO DEFINITION

Non-owned automobiles include vehicles driven by staff members for business purposes. The vehicle must be owned by the employee and used temporarily for company tasks.

Routine commuting between the employee's residence and the primary workplace is not a covered activity. The vehicle must be engaged in a specific errand directed by the named insured.

If an employee uses their personal car to transport catering supplies to a client site, the exposure is addressed. The business is shielded if the employee causes an accident during this trip.

The coverage provided here acts as a secondary layer above the employee's personal auto policy. The employee's primary limits must be exhausted before this commercial extension responds.

SECTION IV - EMPLOYEE USAGE

The named insured must maintain a formal roster of employees authorized to use their personal vehicles. Regular motor vehicle record checks are required to ensure safe driving histories.

Employees with suspended licenses or severe driving infractions are excluded from this coverage. The business assumes full liability if they permit an unauthorized staff member to drive.

Independent contractors and temporary workers are not recognized as employees under this specific section. Vehicles owned by these third parties do not qualify as non-owned autos.

The named insured cannot mandate that employees carry specific personal liability limits. However, the commercial extension will only cover the shortfall above whatever personal limits exist.

SECTION V - EXCLUSIONS

Vehicles utilized for the transportation of hazardous materials or bulk chemicals are entirely excluded. The resulting environmental liabilities fall outside the scope of this auto extension.

Mobile equipment, such as forklifts or excavators, does not qualify as a hired or non-owned auto. Incidents involving these machines are addressed under the primary general liability provisions.

Intentional acts of vehicular damage or road rage incidents are strictly omitted from coverage. The named insured will not be shielded from the consequences of malicious employee behavior.

Any liability assumed under a contract or transportation agreement is excluded. The named insured cannot transfer third-party vehicular risks to this policy through a hold-harmless clause.

SECTION VI - LIMIT OF INSURANCE

The $10,000 deductible applies specifically to property damage claims originating from the auto incident. The named insured must contribute this amount before the insurer settles the property destruction.

An 80% coinsurance factor is noted in the schedule, though its application to liability is administrative. It reflects the rating basis for the underlying property exposures tied to the location.

The Actual Loss Sustained business income basis may apply if the auto incident severely disrupts operations. For example, if a hired delivery truck crashes into the primary business structure.

Legal defense expenses are consumed within the $275,000 scheduled limit. As attorney fees accumulate, the available funds for the actual settlement are proportionally reduced.

The named insured must promptly report any vehicular incident to the claims department. Failure to notify the insurer within thirty days may result in a denial of the liability coverage.

If the named insured acquires a fleet of owned vehicles during the policy term, this extension becomes obsolete. A comprehensive commercial auto policy must be implemented immediately.

ADDITIONAL INSURED - CONTRACT

Scheduled Premises And Coverage

This form applies to Additional Insured by Contract at Location 002, Building 001, subject to the $300,000 limit and $5,000 deductible shown in the declarations.

Form BPF 12 09 edition 01 20 must be read with the premises schedule and the Status Grant valuation entry.

A. Amendment to Insured Status

The liability coverage provided under this policy is expanded to include any person or organization whom you have agreed in writing to add as an insured party.

This expansion only takes effect if the written agreement was fully executed prior to the incident that results in a claim for injury or damage.

The organization added by this provision is protected solely with respect to liability arising out of your ongoing operations performed for that specific organization.

Protection does not extend to any independent acts, omissions, or negligence committed directly by the added organization or its own employees.

Once your operations for the added organization have been completed or abandoned, the status granted by this section immediately terminates for any subsequent events.

B. Scope of Contractual Requirement

The written agreement compelling this status must be a valid, legally enforceable contract pertaining directly to the classification of operations listed in the declarations.

Oral agreements, implied contracts, or draft documents lacking authorized signatures do not satisfy the requirement for establishing status under this endorsement.

If the contract requires specific phrasing or a particular edition of an endorsement, this form is deemed to satisfy those requirements to the maximum extent permitted by law.

The scope of protection afforded to the added party will never exceed the minimum requirements explicitly demanded by the underlying written agreement.

Any attempt by the added party to claim protections broader than those negotiated in the underlying contract will be denied under this policy.

C. Primary and Non-Contributing Application

When the underlying contract explicitly demands that this insurance apply on a primary basis, we will not seek contribution from other insurance available to the added party.

This primary application is strictly limited to incidents caused in whole or in part by your acts or omissions in the performance of your work.

If the injury or damage is caused solely by the added organization, this policy will apply only as excess over any other valid and collectible insurance they possess.

You must maintain records demonstrating that the primary and non-contributing requirement was a condition of the contract prior to the occurrence of the incident.

Failure to produce the executed contract upon our request may result in this policy applying on a contributing basis alongside the added party's own insurance.

D. Excluded Professional Acts

The status granted by this endorsement does not apply to any liability arising from the rendering of or failure to render any professional services.

Professional services include but are not limited to the preparation or approval of maps, shop drawings, opinions, reports, surveys, field orders, or architectural specifications.

Supervisory, inspection, architectural, or engineering activities performed by or on behalf of the added organization are strictly excluded from the protections of this form.

This professional acts restriction applies even if the underlying contract attempts to require indemnification for such specialized services or consulting activities.

If a claim involves both general operational negligence and professional errors, protection is only available for the portion of liability stemming from general operational negligence.

E. Limits of Insurance Available

The limits of insurance available to the added organization are restricted to the lesser of the amount required by the contract or the applicable limit shown in the declarations.

Providing status to an additional organization does not increase the overall aggregate limits or the per-occurrence limits stated in the policy declarations.

All payments made to defend or resolve claims on behalf of the added organization will reduce the total available policy limits for all insureds.

If multiple organizations are granted status under this same provision, they will share the applicable limits of insurance without any right to separate or stacked limits.

The deductible amount shown in the declarations remains your sole responsibility, even when a claim is resolved entirely on behalf of the added organization.

F. Documentation and Notice Duties

You must promptly notify our claims department when you become aware of any incident that might result in a claim involving the added organization.

The added organization must also submit a formal request for defense and indemnification in writing, accompanied by a complete copy of the underlying contract.

We reserve the right to require the added organization to authorize us to obtain their own insurance records to verify the absence of overlapping primary coverage.

The added organization must cooperate fully with our investigation, settlement efforts, and defense strategies, just as is required of the primary named insured.

Failure by the added organization to meet these documentation and cooperation duties may result in the forfeiture of their protections under this specific endorsement.

PFAS EXCLUSION

Scheduled Premises And Coverage

This form applies to PFAS Exclusion at Location 001, Building 002, subject to the $50,000 limit and $10,000 deductible shown in the declarations.

Form BPF 14 19 edition 01 20 must be read with the premises schedule and the Exclusion Applies valuation entry.

SECTION I - ABSOLUTE PROHIBITION OF PROTECTION

This policy excludes all liability, loss, cost, or expense connected directly or indirectly to the presence, discharge, or handling of perfluoroalkyl or polyfluoroalkyl substances.

The restriction applies regardless of whether the exposure occurred suddenly, gradually, accidentally, or through intentional manufacturing processes over an extended period.

No protection is available for bodily harm, sickness, disease, or death alleged to have been caused by the ingestion, inhalation, or absorption of these materials.

We will not cover any physical damage to tangible property, including the loss of use of that property, resulting from contamination by these restricted chemicals.

This prohibition supersedes any other provision, coverage extension, or exception found elsewhere in the policy packet that might otherwise suggest available protection.

SECTION II - DEFINITION OF RESTRICTED SUBSTANCES

The restricted materials include any chemical containing at least one fully fluorinated carbon atom, regardless of the specific molecular structure or commercial trade name.

This encompasses perfluorooctanoic acid, perfluorooctanesulfonic acid, and all related salts, isomers, degradation products, and precursor compounds associated with these chemical families.

The restriction applies whether these substances are present in their pure raw form, mixed into intermediate goods, or integrated into finished commercial products.

Any future variants, replacements, or chemical analogs developed to serve similar industrial functions are also captured under this broad definitional restriction.

The presence of these substances at any concentration level, including trace amounts or parts-per-trillion measurements, is sufficient to trigger this absolute exclusion.

SECTION III - EXCLUDED REMEDIATION AND TESTING

We will not fund any demands, directives, or requests to test for, monitor, clean up, remove, contain, treat, detoxify, or neutralize these specific substances.

This includes expenses related to soil sampling, groundwater monitoring wells, air quality assessments, or epidemiological studies demanded by third parties or government agencies.

Costs associated with the installation of filtration systems, alternative water supplies, or medical monitoring programs for potentially exposed populations are strictly excluded.

Any voluntary efforts undertaken by you to assess or mitigate potential contamination on your premises or at third-party sites will not be reimbursed.

The restriction on remediation costs applies equally to your own described premises and to any off-site disposal facilities where your waste may have been transported.

SECTION IV - REGULATORY AND STATUTORY FINES

We will not reimburse any fines, penalties, punitive damages, or multiplied damages assessed by any federal, state, or local regulatory authority.

This includes citations issued by environmental protection agencies, occupational safety boards, or public health departments regarding the handling or discharge of these compounds.

If a government entity initiates a civil or criminal action against you regarding these materials, all associated legal costs and resulting judgments are your sole responsibility.

We will not participate in any administrative hearings, consent decree negotiations, or compliance schedule discussions related to the regulation of these specific chemicals.

Any settlements reached with regulatory bodies to avoid formal litigation or enforcement actions fall entirely outside the scope of this insurance contract.

SECTION V - PRODUCTS AND COMPLETED OPERATIONS IMPACT

The restriction applies fully to any goods or products manufactured, sold, handled, distributed, or disposed of by you or others trading under your name.

If these substances were incorporated into your products by a supplier or subcontractor without your explicit knowledge, the exclusion remains fully in effect.

Claims arising after your work has been completed or abandoned, which allege delayed manifestation of injury from these compounds, are entirely excluded.

Product recalls, market withdrawals, or inventory destruction campaigns necessitated by the discovery of these materials in your supply chain will not be covered.

We will not compensate you for lost revenue, reputational harm, or diminished brand value resulting from public awareness of these substances in your products.

SECTION VI - DEFENSE AND EXPENSE APPLICATION

We have no duty to investigate, defend, or settle any claim, suit, or demand that is based upon or arises out of the presence of these restricted materials.

If a lawsuit contains multiple allegations, some involving these compounds and others involving unrelated matters, we reserve the right to allocate defense costs accordingly.

We will not pay for any expert witnesses, toxicologists, environmental consultants, or specialized legal counsel retained to address the restricted aspects of a mixed claim.

Should we initially provide a defense under a reservation of rights, we maintain the right to withdraw that defense once the involvement of these substances is confirmed.

You agree to reimburse us for any defense costs or expenses we incur prior to the definitive determination that the claim is barred by this specific exclusion.

ORDINARY PAYROLL LIMITATION

Scheduled Premises And Coverage

This form applies to Ordinary Payroll Limitation at Location 002, Building 002, subject to the $100,000 limit and $10,000 deductible shown in the declarations.

Form BPF 04 67 edition 04 24 must be read with the premises schedule and the 90 Days valuation entry.

PART A - MODIFICATION OF CONTINUING EXPENSES

This endorsement modifies the business income provisions by restricting the reimbursement available for specific categories of employee compensation during an operational disruption at the described premises.

When a covered event forces the suspension of your operations, we will only reimburse certain payroll expenses for the precise number of days indicated in the declarations.

This limitation applies regardless of the total duration of your operational suspension or the overall time required to repair the physical damage at the described premises.

The restriction supersedes any general statements in the primary coverage form regarding the payment of necessary continuing operating expenses during the restoration period.

By applying this limitation, the calculation of your actual loss sustained is adjusted to exclude the restricted compensation costs once the specified time period expires.

PART B - DEFINITION OF ORDINARY PAYROLL

The restricted compensation category encompasses the wages, salaries, and associated payroll costs for all employees who do not hold executive or specialized managerial roles.

It includes standard hourly wages, overtime pay, shift differentials, and piece-rate compensation paid to your general workforce, production staff, and clerical personnel.

The definition also captures union dues, payroll taxes, workers compensation insurance premiums, and standard benefits directly tied to the wages of these general employees.

Contributions to retirement plans, health insurance premiums, and other fringe benefits for the affected employee class are subject to this exact same time restriction.

Any bonuses, profit-sharing distributions, or incentive payments normally earned by these employees are considered part of the restricted compensation category.

PART C - APPLICATION OF THE TIME LIMITATION

The reimbursement for the defined compensation category is strictly capped at the consecutive number of days shown in the declarations, beginning on the date of loss.

If the declarations specify a ninety-day period, no compensation costs for the restricted employee class will be reimbursed on the ninety-first day or any day thereafter.

The limitation period runs continuously and cannot be paused, tolled, or divided into separate segments if your operations resume partially and then suspend again.

If the overall period of restoration is shorter than the limitation period specified in the declarations, the restriction has no practical effect on your final settlement.

You may choose to continue paying these employees out of your own funds after the limitation period expires, but those expenditures will not be reimbursed by this policy.

PART D - EXCLUDED EMPLOYEE CATEGORIES

The time restriction does not apply to the compensation of officers, executives, department managers, or employees operating under specialized employment contracts.

Employees whose unique skills or institutional knowledge make them essential to the resumption of your business operations are exempt from this specific limitation.

To qualify for exemption, the essential nature of the employee must be demonstrable through their job description, salary structure, and role in the recovery process.

The compensation for these exempt individuals remains covered as a necessary continuing operating expense for the entire duration of the covered restoration period.

We reserve the right to review your organizational chart and payroll records to verify which employees genuinely qualify for exemption from the time restriction.

PART E - RECORD KEEPING AND SUBSTANTIATION

You must maintain accurate, detailed payroll records that clearly distinguish between the compensation paid to general staff and the compensation paid to exempt executives.

During the claim adjustment process, you are required to submit certified payroll registers, tax filings, and benefit invoices to substantiate the claimed expenses.

If your accounting systems cannot reliably separate the restricted compensation from the exempt compensation, we will apply the limitation to the entire disputed payroll amount.

Historical payroll data from the twelve months preceding the physical loss will be used as the baseline to evaluate the reasonableness of the claimed compensation costs.

You must also provide documentation proving that the claimed employees were actually retained and paid during the limitation period following the suspension of operations.

PART F - INTERACTION WITH RESTORATION PERIOD

This limitation does not alter the starting point or the ending point of the overall period of restoration defined in the primary business income form.

It solely acts as a financial cap on one specific category of continuing expenses within the broader calculation of your actual loss sustained.

If a waiting period deductible applies to your business income coverage, the limitation period for restricted compensation begins concurrently with that waiting period.

The expiration of the compensation limitation period does not prevent you from continuing to claim other covered operating expenses, such as rent or utilities.

Any extended business income protection provided by the policy remains subject to this same compensation restriction if the limitation period has already been exhausted.

- C. Form BPF 00 13 edition 01 20 must be read with the premises schedule and the Replacement Cost valuation entry.
- D. When the carrier provides financial indemnity for a loss, it automatically assumes the policyholder's rights to pursue recovery from any third party responsible for the impairment. This transfer of rights is fundamental to the equitable distribution of risk.
- E. The policyholder must execute any documents and perform any actions necessary to secure and preserve these recovery rights. Any action taken by the policyholder that prejudices the carrier's ability to pursue subrogation may result in a proportional reduction of the indemnity provided.
- F. Prior to the occurrence of an event, the policyholder may waive their rights of recovery against another party through a formal written contract. The carrier acknowledges such waivers provided they are executed before the loss and documented appropriately.
- G. After an event has occurred, the policyholder may not waive recovery rights against any party without the explicit written authorization of the carrier. Unauthorized post-loss waivers severely compromise the carrier's financial position and violate the terms of this agreement.
- H. If the carrier successfully recovers funds from a responsible third party, the proceeds are distributed according to a specific hierarchy. The carrier first deducts the expenses incurred during the recovery effort, including legal fees and investigation costs.
- I. Following the deduction of expenses, the policyholder is reimbursed for any deductible amounts previously absorbed. The remaining funds are then retained by the carrier up to the total amount of indemnity disbursed for the claim.
- J. Any surplus funds recovered beyond the carrier's disbursements and the policyholder's deductible will be remitted to the policyholder. This ensures that the recovery process does not result in an unintended windfall for the carrier.
- K. The carrier retains sole discretion over whether to initiate, continue, or abandon subrogation proceedings. The policyholder cannot compel the carrier to pursue a third party if the carrier determines the effort is not economically viable.
- L. In situations where the policyholder initiates their own recovery action against a third party, they must notify the carrier immediately. The carrier may elect to join the action to protect its financial interests.
- M. These recovery provisions apply equally to both property impairment claims and liability disbursements, ensuring a consistent approach to third-party accountability across all coverage parts.

COVERAGE: Equipment Breakdown
FORM: BPF 04 62 EDITION: 04 24 LIMIT: $200,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to Equipment Breakdown at Location 002, Building 002, subject to the $200,000 limit and $5,000 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 04 62 edition 04 24 must be read with the premises schedule and the Replacement Cost valuation entry.
- D. The integrity of this agreement relies upon the complete and truthful disclosure of all material facts by the policyholder. The carrier issues this document based upon the representations provided during the underwriting and application phases.
- E. If the policyholder intentionally conceals or misrepresents a material fact concerning the scheduled premises, the nature of the operations, or the financial interest in the property, the carrier may void the agreement in its entirety.
- F. A fact is considered material if its accurate disclosure would have influenced the carrier's decision to issue the policy, the determination of the premium, or the formulation of the specific terms and conditions.
- G. Fraudulent conduct occurring at any point during the policy period, whether related to a claim submission or an administrative request, constitutes a severe breach of this agreement. Such conduct immediately jeopardizes all available indemnity.
- H. In the event of a claim, the submission of fabricated evidence, inflated repair estimates, or exaggerated inventory lists is strictly prohibited. The carrier employs specialized investigative resources to verify the authenticity of all submitted documentation.
- I. If fraud is detected during the claims process, the carrier reserves the right to deny the entire claim, even if a portion of the loss is legitimate. The policyholder forfeits all rights to recovery under these circumstances.
- J. The carrier may pursue legal action to recover any funds previously disbursed if subsequent investigations reveal that the payment was procured through fraudulent means or material misrepresentation.
- K. These provisions apply not only to the named insured but also to any partners, executive officers, or authorized representatives acting on behalf of the business entity.
- L. Unintentional errors or administrative oversights in reporting information will not automatically void the agreement, provided the policyholder corrects the discrepancy promptly upon discovery.
- M. However, the carrier retains the right to adjust the premium retroactively to reflect the true exposure if an unintentional error resulted in an artificially low initial calculation.

DESCRIBED PREMISES AND SCHEDULE NOTICE

THIS NOTICE IS PROVIDED FOR INFORMATIONAL PURPOSES.
IT DOES NOT CHANGE THE COVERAGE PROVIDED BY THIS POLICY.

NOTICE TO POLICYHOLDER

The policy consists of the declarations, coverage forms, schedules, notices, and endorsements issued by the company. Read all pages together before relying on a single schedule or summary.

A certificate of insurance, billing statement, producer correspondence, or claim notice does not change a limit, deductible, location, form, classification, exclusion, premium, or effective date.

If the policyholder requests a change, the change is effective only when the company issues an endorsement or revised declarations page. Retain all later endorsements with the policy packet.

Questions about billing, audit, loss reporting, or policy changes should be directed to the producer or servicing office shown in the declarations.

The forms schedule identifies the edition date for each coverage form, endorsement, amendatory page and notice attached to the policy packet.

If more than one schedule refers to the same location or building, read the location number, building number, coverage name, form number, and effective date together before relying on the entry.

The insured should retain the full packet, including replaced pages, because later endorsements may apply only from their effective dates.

TRANSFER OF RIGHTS AND POLICY CHANGES

LOCATION: 002 BUILDING: 001
COVERAGE: Accounts Receivable
FORM: BPF 04 26 EDITION: 12 23 LIMIT: $235,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to Accounts Receivable at Location 002, Building 001, subject to the $235,000 limit and $5,000 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 04 26 edition 12 23 must be read with the premises schedule and the Scheduled Limit valuation entry.
- D. The rights and duties established under this agreement are specific to the named insured designated on the declarations. These rights cannot be transferred, sold, or assigned to another entity without the express written authorization of the carrier.
- E. If the policyholder attempts to assign the policy without consent, the assignment is considered void, and the carrier's obligations remain solely with the original named insured. This restriction prevents the unauthorized transfer of risk to ununderwritten entities.
- F. In the event the named insured is an individual and passes away during the policy period, the rights and duties temporarily transfer to a legal representative. This transfer is strictly limited to actions necessary to maintain the property and settle outstanding affairs.
- G. Any modifications to the terms, conditions, or schedules of this agreement must be executed through a formal written endorsement issued by the carrier. Verbal agreements or informal communications with producers do not alter the policy language.
- H. The first named insured listed on the declarations is authorized to request changes to the policy on behalf of all other insured parties. The carrier will direct all correspondence, endorsements, and administrative notices to this primary individual or entity.
- I. When a change request results in a modification of the risk profile, the carrier will calculate any corresponding adjustment to the premium. Additional premiums must be remitted promptly to ensure the continuation of the revised terms.
- J. If a change results in a reduction of exposure, the carrier will process a return premium in accordance with the applicable rating rules. Return premiums are typically credited to the policyholder's billing account.
- K. The carrier may periodically update its standard forms and endorsements to reflect regulatory changes or internal guidelines. If these updates broaden coverage without an additional premium charge, the broadened terms will automatically apply to this agreement.
- L. However, if form updates restrict coverage, the carrier will not apply them mid-term. Such restrictions will only be introduced at the time of policy renewal, accompanied by the required statutory notices.
- M. The policyholder is responsible for reviewing all issued endorsements to ensure they accurately reflect the requested changes and do not inadvertently conflict with the intended scope of the agreement.

JOINT AND SEVERAL INSUREDS

LOCATION: 001 BUILDING: 002
COVERAGE: Outdoor Property
FORM: BPF 04 28 EDITION: 04 24 LIMIT: $260,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to Outdoor Property at Location 001, Building 002, subject to the $260,000 limit and $2,500 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 04 28 edition 04 24 must be read with the premises schedule and the Replacement Cost valuation entry.
- D. When multiple entities or individuals are designated as named insureds on the declarations, their rights and obligations under this agreement are managed collectively. The first named insured serves as the primary point of contact for all administrative functions.
- E. The carrier fulfills its notification requirements by directing cancellation notices, nonrenewal alerts, and policy changes exclusively to the first named insured. It is the responsibility of the first named insured to disseminate this information to the other parties.
- F. Premium obligations are joint and several. The carrier may pursue collection of outstanding balances from any of the named insureds, regardless of their internal financial arrangements or proportionate ownership of the scheduled premises.
- G. In the event of a covered property impairment, the carrier will issue settlement drafts payable jointly to all entities possessing an insurable interest in the affected property. The carrier is not responsible for mediating internal disputes regarding the distribution of funds.
- H. If a liability claim involves allegations against multiple named insureds, the scheduled limits apply to the event as a whole, not separately to each entity. The presence of multiple insureds does not multiply the available indemnity.
- I. The actions of one named insured may impact the availability of indemnity for the others. For instance, if one entity intentionally conceals a material fact, the carrier may void the agreement for all parties.
- J. However, in liability scenarios, the separation of insureds provision ensures that the carrier evaluates the conduct of each entity independently when applying specific exclusions. An exclusion triggered by the actions of one party may not necessarily preclude coverage for an innocent co-insured.
- K. The first named insured possesses the exclusive authority to authorize the cancellation of the policy or request significant reductions in limits. The carrier will process these requests without requiring the signatures of the subordinate entities.
- L. Any return premiums generated by policy changes or audits will be remitted to the first named insured. The carrier assumes no liability for the subsequent allocation of these refunds.
- M. Entities added as additional insureds via endorsement do not possess the administrative rights of named insureds. Their status is strictly limited to the specific liability protections outlined in the corresponding endorsement.

NOTICE TO POLICYHOLDER

The policy consists of the declarations, coverage forms, schedules, notices, and endorsements issued by the company. Read all pages together before relying on a single schedule or summary.

PROPERTY VALUATION AND SETTLEMENT OPERATION

LOCATION: 002 BUILDING: 001
COVERAGE: Additional Insured by Contract
FORM: BPF 12 09 EDITION: 06 21 LIMIT: $100,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

B. This form applies to Additional Insured by Contract at Location 002, Building 001, subject to the $100,000 limit and $5,000 deductible shown in the declarations.

C. Form BPF 12 09 edition 06 21 must be read with the premises schedule and the Status Grant valuation entry.

D. This section details the methodologies utilized to quantify financial indemnity following a covered impairment of scheduled property. The specific valuation basis applicable to a given location and building number is designated on the declarations or the corresponding property schedule.

E. When replacement cost is indicated, the carrier determines the expenditure required to repair or replace the affected property with materials of comparable kind and quality. This determination is made without deduction for physical deterioration or obsolescence.

F. Indemnity under the replacement cost method is contingent upon the actual completion of repairs or replacement. If the policyholder elects not to rebuild or replace, the settlement will default to the actual cash value of the property at the time of the event.

G. Actual cash value calculations incorporate a deduction for depreciation, reflecting the age, condition, and remaining useful life of the property immediately prior to the impairment. This method applies automatically when replacement cost is not explicitly scheduled.

H. If an agreed value provision is active for a specific premises, the carrier suspends the standard coinsurance requirements for the duration of the policy period. The scheduled limit is accepted as the agreed valuation for the purposes of total loss settlement.

I. Coinsurance provisions require the policyholder to maintain limits of insurance equal to or exceeding a specified percentage of the property's total value. Failure to meet this threshold results in a proportional reduction of the final settlement amount.

J. The deductible amount scheduled on the declarations represents the policyholder's retained risk for each separate event. The carrier applies the deductible to the total calculated loss before comparing the result against the applicable limit of insurance.

K. In scenarios involving multiple scheduled coverages affected by a single event, the highest applicable deductible will be applied once to the aggregate loss. Separate deductibles are not stacked unless explicitly mandated by an attached endorsement.

L. If a dispute arises regarding the precise quantification of the loss, either party may invoke the formal appraisal process. Each party selects an impartial valuation expert, and those experts jointly select a neutral umpire to resolve any remaining differences.

M. The appraisal process is strictly limited to determining the monetary value of the loss and cannot be utilized to resolve disputes regarding the applicability of coverage, exclusions, or policy conditions.

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to PFAS Exclusion at Location 001, Building 002, subject to the $125,000 limit and $10,000 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 14 19 edition 01 20 must be read with the premises schedule and the Exclusion Applies valuation entry.
- D. Prompt notification of any event that may result in a claim is a fundamental condition precedent to receiving indemnity under this agreement. The policyholder must alert the carrier or its authorized representative as soon as practicable after discovering the impairment or liability exposure.
- E. The notification must include comprehensive details regarding the time, place, and circumstances of the event. Furthermore, the policyholder must identify any injured parties and potential witnesses, providing contact information where available.
- F. In the context of property impairment, the policyholder must take immediate and reasonable steps to protect the remaining property from subsequent harm. The carrier will reimburse reasonable expenses incurred for this temporary protection, subject to overall policy limits.
- G. The policyholder must separate damaged from undamaged property, allowing the carrier's representatives to conduct a thorough inspection. Detailed inventories of the affected items, including quantities, acquisition costs, and estimated replacement values, must be prepared.
- H. If the event involves suspected criminal activity, such as theft or vandalism, the policyholder must promptly notify the appropriate law enforcement authorities. A copy of the official police report must be secured and forwarded to the carrier.
- I. The carrier reserves the authority to require the policyholder to submit to an examination under oath regarding the circumstances of the claim. This examination may be conducted multiple times if reasonably necessary to establish the facts.
- J. Within the timeframe specified by the carrier, the policyholder must submit a signed, sworn proof of loss document. This document formalizes the claim and includes specific assertions regarding the ownership of the property, the cause of the event, and the total amount requested.
- K. In liability scenarios, the policyholder must immediately forward any demands, notices, summonses, or legal papers received in connection with the event. The carrier requires these documents to evaluate the exposure and organize an appropriate defense.
- L. The policyholder must cooperate fully with the carrier in the investigation, settlement, or defense of any claim or suit. This includes attending hearings, assisting in securing evidence, and facilitating the attendance of witnesses.
- M. No voluntary payments, assumed obligations, or incurred expenses may be made by the policyholder without the prior written consent of the carrier, except for immediate medical aid at the time of an incident.

SUBROGATION AND THIRD-PARTY RECOVERY

LOCATION: 002 BUILDING: 002
COVERAGE: Ordinary Payroll Limitation
FORM: BPF 04 67 EDITION: 12 23 LIMIT: $125,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

B. This form applies to Ordinary Payroll Limitation at Location 002, Building 002, subject to the $125,000 limit and $1,000 deductible shown in the declarations.

C. Form BPF 04 67 edition 12 23 must be read with the premises schedule and the 90 Days valuation entry.

D. When the carrier provides financial indemnity for a loss, it automatically assumes the policyholder's rights to pursue recovery from any third party responsible for the impairment. This transfer of rights is fundamental to the equitable distribution of risk.

E. The policyholder must execute any documents and perform any actions necessary to secure and preserve these recovery rights. Any action taken by the policyholder that prejudices the carrier's ability to pursue subrogation may result in a proportional reduction of the indemnity provided.

F. Prior to the occurrence of an event, the policyholder may waive their rights of recovery against another party through a formal written contract. The carrier acknowledges such waivers provided they are executed before the loss and documented appropriately.

G. After an event has occurred, the policyholder may not waive recovery rights against any party without the explicit written authorization of the carrier. Unauthorized post-loss waivers severely compromise the carrier's financial position and violate the terms of this agreement.

H. If the carrier successfully recovers funds from a responsible third party, the proceeds are distributed according to a specific hierarchy. The carrier first deducts the expenses incurred during the recovery effort, including legal fees and investigation costs.

I. Following the deduction of expenses, the policyholder is reimbursed for any deductible amounts previously absorbed. The remaining funds are then retained by the carrier up to the total amount of indemnity disbursed for the claim.

J. Any surplus funds recovered beyond the carrier's disbursements and the policyholder's deductible will be remitted to the policyholder. This ensures that the recovery process does not result in an unintended windfall for the carrier.

K. The carrier retains sole discretion over whether to initiate, continue, or abandon subrogation proceedings. The policyholder cannot compel the carrier to pursue a third party if the carrier determines the effort is not economically viable.

L. In situations where the policyholder initiates their own recovery action against a third party, they must notify the carrier immediately. The carrier may elect to join the action to protect its financial interests.

M. These recovery provisions apply equally to both property impairment claims and liability disbursements, ensuring a consistent approach to third-party accountability across all coverage parts.

LIABILITY DEFENSE AND SETTLEMENT PROVISIONS

LOCATION: 001 BUILDING: 001
COVERAGE: Building
FORM: BPF 00 13 EDITION: 12 23 LIMIT: $160,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

B. This form applies to Building at Location 001, Building 001, subject to the $160,000 limit and $2,500 deductible shown in the declarations.

C. Form BPF 00 13 edition 12 23 must be read with the premises schedule and the Replacement Cost valuation entry.

D. The carrier assumes the responsibility to organize and finance legal representation for the policyholder when a suit alleges liability for an event falling within the scope of this agreement. This responsibility exists even if the allegations are groundless, false, or fraudulent.

E. The selection of legal counsel remains the exclusive prerogative of the carrier, ensuring that experienced professionals handle the defense strategy. The policyholder must not retain independent counsel at the carrier's expense without prior written authorization.

F. Expenses incurred during the defense process, including attorney fees, court costs, and investigation expenditures, are generally provided in addition to the scheduled liability limits. These supplementary payments do not reduce the available indemnity for settlements or judgments.

G. The carrier retains the authority to investigate any incident and negotiate the resolution of any claim or suit as it deems appropriate. The policyholder may not impede these negotiations or unreasonably withhold consent to a proposed settlement.

H. If a settlement offer is presented that falls within the available limits, and the carrier recommends acceptance, the policyholder's refusal to consent may limit the carrier's future obligations. In such cases, the carrier's responsibility for subsequent judgments or defense costs may be capped at the amount of the rejected offer.

I. The obligation to provide legal representation terminates immediately once the applicable limit of insurance has been exhausted through the payment of judgments or settlements. The carrier will notify the policyholder when limits are nearing exhaustion to allow for transition of counsel.

J. In jurisdictions where pre-judgment interest is awarded, the carrier will finance that interest on the portion of the judgment it is obligated to pay. However, this obligation ceases once the carrier has offered its policy limit.

K. The carrier will also finance premiums for appeal bonds or bonds to release attachments, provided the bond amount does not exceed the available policy limit. The carrier is not obligated to furnish these bonds itself.

L. If the policyholder is required to attend court proceedings or depositions at the carrier's request, reasonable expenses incurred, including documented loss of earnings up to a specified daily maximum, will be reimbursed.

M. These defense provisions apply exclusively to suits seeking monetary damages for covered events. The carrier is not obligated to defend administrative proceedings, injunctive relief actions, or criminal prosecutions.

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to Business Income and Extra Expense at Location 001, Building 002, subject to the $210,000 limit and $2,500 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 04 39 edition 04 24 must be read with the premises schedule and the Actual Loss Sustained valuation entry.
- D. The carrier possesses the right, though not the obligation, to conduct physical inspections and surveys of the scheduled premises and operations at any reasonable time during the policy period.
- E. These assessments are performed exclusively for underwriting purposes, premium determination, and the evaluation of insurability. They are not intended to serve as comprehensive safety audits or regulatory compliance checks.
- F. The policyholder must grant the carrier's representatives access to the facilities, equipment, and relevant operational records necessary to complete the survey. Failure to facilitate these inspections may result in adverse administrative action.
- G. Following an inspection, the carrier may provide recommendations regarding risk mitigation, property protection, or operational safety. The implementation of these recommendations is generally at the discretion of the policyholder.
- H. However, if a specific hazard is identified that significantly alters the risk profile, the carrier may require the implementation of corrective measures as a condition of continued coverage. Written notice will outline the required actions and the timeframe for completion.
- I. The carrier does not warrant that the premises are safe, healthful, or in compliance with local, state, or federal regulations. The responsibility for maintaining a safe environment remains entirely with the policyholder.
- J. The issuance of this policy does not imply that all potential hazards have been identified or that the current risk control measures are adequate. The policyholder should not rely upon the carrier's inspections as a substitute for internal safety protocols.
- K. Reports generated from these surveys are the proprietary property of the carrier and are utilized internally for risk assessment. The carrier is not obligated to share the full contents of these reports with the policyholder.
- L. If the policyholder utilizes third-party risk management consultants, the carrier may request access to their findings to supplement its own underwriting evaluation.

TERRORISM RISK INSURANCE ACT DISCLOSURE

THIS NOTICE IS PROVIDED FOR INFORMATIONAL PURPOSES.
IT DOES NOT CHANGE THE COVERAGE PROVIDED BY THIS POLICY.

NOTICE TO POLICYHOLDER

The policy consists of the declarations, coverage forms, schedules, notices, and endorsements issued by the company. Read all pages together before relying on a single schedule or summary.

A certificate of insurance, billing statement, producer correspondence, or claim notice does not change a limit, deductible, location, form, classification, exclusion, premium, or effective date.

If the policyholder requests a change, the change is effective only when the company issues an endorsement or revised declarations page. Retain all later endorsements with the policy packet.

Questions about billing, audit, loss reporting, or policy changes should be directed to the producer or servicing office shown in the declarations.

The forms schedule identifies the edition date for each coverage form, endorsement, amendatory page and notice attached to the policy packet.

If more than one schedule refers to the same location or building, read the location number, building number, coverage name, form number, and effective date together before relying on the entry.

The insured should retain the full packet, including replaced pages, because later endorsements may apply only from their effective dates.

KEEP THIS NOTICE WITH YOUR POLICY FOR FUTURE REFERENCE.

LOCATION: 001 BUILDING: 001
COVERAGE: Employee Dishonesty
FORM: BPF 15 18 EDITION: 04 24 LIMIT: $260,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

B. This form applies to Employee Dishonesty at Location 001, Building 001, subject to the $260,000 limit and $500 deductible shown in the declarations.

C. Form BPF 15 18 edition 04 24 must be read with the premises schedule and the Blanket Limit valuation entry.

D. When multiple entities or individuals are designated as named insureds on the declarations, their rights and obligations under this agreement are managed collectively. The first named insured serves as the primary point of contact for all administrative functions.

E. The carrier fulfills its notification requirements by directing cancellation notices, nonrenewal alerts, and policy changes exclusively to the first named insured. It is the responsibility of the first named insured to disseminate this information to the other parties.

F. Premium obligations are joint and several. The carrier may pursue collection of outstanding balances from any of the named insureds, regardless of their internal financial arrangements or proportionate ownership of the scheduled premises.

G. In the event of a covered property impairment, the carrier will issue settlement drafts payable jointly to all entities possessing an insurable interest in the affected property. The carrier is not responsible for mediating internal disputes regarding the distribution of funds.

H. If a liability claim involves allegations against multiple named insureds, the scheduled limits apply to the event as a whole, not separately to each entity. The presence of multiple insureds does not multiply the available indemnity.

I. The actions of one named insured may impact the availability of indemnity for the others. For instance, if one entity intentionally conceals a material fact, the carrier may void the agreement for all parties.

J. However, in liability scenarios, the separation of insureds provision ensures that the carrier evaluates the conduct of each entity independently when applying specific exclusions. An exclusion triggered by the actions of one party may not necessarily preclude coverage for an innocent co-insured.

K. The first named insured possesses the exclusive authority to authorize the cancellation of the policy or request significant reductions in limits. The carrier will process these requests without requiring the signatures of the subordinate entities.

L. Any return premiums generated by policy changes or audits will be remitted to the first named insured. The carrier assumes no liability for the subsequent allocation of these refunds.

M. Entities added as additional insureds via endorsement do not possess the administrative rights of named insureds. Their status is strictly limited to the specific liability protections outlined in the corresponding endorsement.

C. Form BPF 04 47 edition 01 20 must be read with the premises schedule and the Liability Limit valuation entry.

D. Prompt notification of any event that may result in a claim is a fundamental condition precedent to receiving indemnity under this agreement. The policyholder must alert the carrier or its authorized representative as soon as practicable after discovering the impairment or liability exposure.

E. The notification must include comprehensive details regarding the time, place, and circumstances of the event. Furthermore, the policyholder must identify any injured parties and potential witnesses, providing contact information where available.

F. In the context of property impairment, the policyholder must take immediate and reasonable steps to protect the remaining property from subsequent harm. The carrier will reimburse reasonable expenses incurred for this temporary protection, subject to overall policy limits.

G. The policyholder must separate damaged from undamaged property, allowing the carrier's representatives to conduct a thorough inspection. Detailed inventories of the affected items, including quantities, acquisition costs, and estimated replacement values, must be prepared.

L. The policyholder must cooperate fully with the carrier in the investigation, settlement, or defense of any claim or suit. This includes attending hearings, assisting in securing evidence, and facilitating the attendance of witnesses.

SUBROGATION AND THIRD-PARTY RECOVERY

LOCATION: 002 BUILDING: 001
COVERAGE: Additional Insured by Contract
FORM: BPF 12 09 EDITION: 12 23 LIMIT: $150,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to Additional Insured by Contract at Location 002, Building 001, subject to the $150,000 limit and $2,500 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 12 09 edition 12 23 must be read with the premises schedule and the Status Grant valuation entry.
- D. When the carrier provides financial indemnity for a loss, it automatically assumes the policyholder's rights to pursue recovery from any third party responsible for the impairment. This transfer of rights is fundamental to the equitable distribution of risk.
- E. The policyholder must execute any documents and perform any actions necessary to secure and preserve these recovery rights. Any action taken by the policyholder that prejudices the carrier's ability to pursue subrogation may result in a proportional reduction of the indemnity provided.
- F. Prior to the occurrence of an event, the policyholder may waive their rights of recovery against another party through a formal written contract. The carrier acknowledges such waivers provided they are executed before the loss and documented appropriately.
- G. After an event has occurred, the policyholder may not waive recovery rights against any party without the explicit written authorization of the carrier. Unauthorized post-loss waivers severely compromise the carrier's financial position and violate the terms of this agreement.
- H. If the carrier successfully recovers funds from a responsible third party, the proceeds are distributed according to a specific hierarchy. The carrier first deducts the expenses incurred during the recovery effort, including legal fees and investigation costs.
- I. Following the deduction of expenses, the policyholder is reimbursed for any deductible amounts previously absorbed. The remaining funds are then retained by the carrier up to the total amount of indemnity disbursed for the claim.
- J. Any surplus funds recovered beyond the carrier's disbursements and the policyholder's deductible will be remitted to the policyholder. This ensures that the recovery process does not result in an unintended windfall for the carrier.
- K. The carrier retains sole discretion over whether to initiate, continue, or abandon subrogation proceedings. The policyholder cannot compel the carrier to pursue a third party if the carrier determines the effort is not economically viable.
- L. In situations where the policyholder initiates their own recovery action against a third party, they must notify the carrier immediately. The carrier may elect to join the action to protect its financial interests.
- M. These recovery provisions apply equally to both property impairment claims and liability disbursements, ensuring a consistent approach to third-party accountability across all coverage parts.

LOCATION: 001 BUILDING: 002
COVERAGE: PFAS Exclusion
FORM: BPF 14 19 EDITION: 04 24 LIMIT: $150,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to PFAS Exclusion at Location 001, Building 002, subject to the $150,000 limit and $2,500 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 14 19 edition 04 24 must be read with the premises schedule and the Exclusion Applies valuation entry.
- D. The carrier assumes the responsibility to organize and finance legal representation for the policyholder when a suit alleges liability for an event falling within the scope of this agreement. This responsibility exists even if the allegations are groundless, false, or fraudulent.
- E. The selection of legal counsel remains the exclusive prerogative of the carrier, ensuring that experienced professionals handle the defense strategy. The policyholder must not retain independent counsel at the carrier's expense without prior written authorization.
- F. Expenses incurred during the defense process, including attorney fees, court costs, and investigation expenditures, are generally provided in addition to the scheduled liability limits. These supplementary payments do not reduce the available indemnity for settlements or judgments.
- G. The carrier retains the authority to investigate any incident and negotiate the resolution of any claim or suit as it deems appropriate. The policyholder may not impede these negotiations or unreasonably withhold consent to a proposed settlement.
- H. If a settlement offer is presented that falls within the available limits, and the carrier recommends acceptance, the policyholder's refusal to consent may limit the carrier's future obligations. In such cases, the carrier's responsibility for subsequent judgments or defense costs may be capped at the amount of the rejected offer.
- I. The obligation to provide legal representation terminates immediately once the applicable limit of insurance has been exhausted through the payment of judgments or settlements. The carrier will notify the policyholder when limits are nearing exhaustion to allow for transition of counsel.
- J. In jurisdictions where pre-judgment interest is awarded, the carrier will finance that interest on the portion of the judgment it is obligated to pay. However, this obligation ceases once the carrier has offered its policy limit.
- K. The carrier will also finance premiums for appeal bonds or bonds to release attachments, provided the bond amount does not exceed the available policy limit. The carrier is not obligated to furnish these bonds itself.
- L. If the policyholder is required to attend court proceedings or depositions at the carrier's request, reasonable expenses incurred, including documented loss of earnings up to a specified daily maximum, will be reimbursed.
- M. These defense provisions apply exclusively to suits seeking monetary damages for covered events. The carrier is not obligated to defend administrative proceedings, injunctive relief actions, or criminal prosecutions.

TERRORISM RISK INSURANCE ACT DISCLOSURE

THIS NOTICE IS PROVIDED FOR INFORMATIONAL PURPOSES.
IT DOES NOT CHANGE THE COVERAGE PROVIDED BY THIS POLICY.

NOTICE TO POLICYHOLDER

The policy consists of the declarations, coverage forms, schedules, notices, and endorsements issued by the company. Read all pages together before relying on a single schedule or summary.

A certificate of insurance, billing statement, producer correspondence, or claim notice does not change a limit, deductible, location, form, classification, exclusion, premium, or effective date.

If the policyholder requests a change, the change is effective only when the company issues an endorsement or revised declarations page. Retain all later endorsements with the policy packet.

Questions about billing, audit, loss reporting, or policy changes should be directed to the producer or servicing office shown in the declarations.

The forms schedule identifies the edition date for each coverage form, endorsement, amendatory page and notice attached to the policy packet.

If more than one schedule refers to the same location or building, read the location number, building number, coverage name, form number, and effective date together before relying on the entry.

The insured should retain the full packet, including replaced pages, because later endorsements may apply only from their effective dates.

KEEP THIS NOTICE WITH YOUR POLICY FOR FUTURE REFERENCE.

PREMIUM CONDITIONS

1. Premium shown in this policy is an estimate unless the declarations or premium schedule states that the premium is fully earned or not auditable.
2. Final premium may depend on payroll, sales, property values, occupancy, location, classification, endorsements, and other rating information.
3. The insured must keep records needed to verify the premium basis and must make those records available for audit during normal business hours.
4. A payment plan, installment bill, finance agreement, or invoice does not amend coverage and does not replace the declarations or schedules.
5. Return premium, additional premium, fees, and taxes are calculated using the policy terms, rating plan, and applicable law.
6. Premium shown for a single scheduled coverage does not change limits, deductibles, valuation terms, covered premises, or exclusions.
7. If the insured requests a change during the policy period, any resulting premium adjustment applies from the effective date shown on the endorsement or revised declarations page.

LOCATION: 002 BUILDING: 001
COVERAGE: Business Personal Property
FORM: BPF 00 13 EDITION: 01 20 LIMIT: $250,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

- B. This form applies to Business Personal Property at Location 002, Building 001, subject to the $250,000 limit and $1,000 deductible shown in the declarations.
- C. Form BPF 00 13 edition 01 20 must be read with the premises schedule and the Replacement Cost valuation entry.
- D. The rights and duties established under this agreement are specific to the named insured designated on the declarations. These rights cannot be transferred, sold, or assigned to another entity without the express written authorization of the carrier.
- E. If the policyholder attempts to assign the policy without consent, the assignment is considered void, and the carrier's obligations remain solely with the original named insured. This restriction prevents the unauthorized transfer of risk to ununderwritten entities.
- F. In the event the named insured is an individual and passes away during the policy period, the rights and duties temporarily transfer to a legal representative. This transfer is strictly limited to actions necessary to maintain the property and settle outstanding affairs.
- G. Any modifications to the terms, conditions, or schedules of this agreement must be executed through a formal written endorsement issued by the carrier. Verbal agreements or informal communications with producers do not alter the policy language.
- H. The first named insured listed on the declarations is authorized to request changes to the policy on behalf of all other insured parties. The carrier will direct all correspondence, endorsements, and administrative notices to this primary individual or entity.
- I. When a change request results in a modification of the risk profile, the carrier will calculate any corresponding adjustment to the premium. Additional premiums must be remitted promptly to ensure the continuation of the revised terms.
- J. If a change results in a reduction of exposure, the carrier will process a return premium in accordance with the applicable rating rules. Return premiums are typically credited to the policyholder's billing account.
- K. The carrier may periodically update its standard forms and endorsements to reflect regulatory changes or internal guidelines. If these updates broaden coverage without an additional premium charge, the broadened terms will automatically apply to this agreement.
- L. However, if form updates restrict coverage, the carrier will not apply them mid-term. Such restrictions will only be introduced at the time of policy renewal, accompanied by the required statutory notices.
- M. The policyholder is responsible for reviewing all issued endorsements to ensure they accurately reflect the requested changes and do not inadvertently conflict with the intended scope of the agreement.

LOCATION: 001 BUILDING: 002 FORM REFERENCE: BPF 04 39

The following provisions amend the policy only to the extent required by law or regulation applicable to the state shown in the schedule.

2. Any provision conflicting with mandatory state law is amended to conform to that law, but only for the policy or premises subject to that law.
3. Duties after loss, appraisal, legal action, and proof-of-loss provisions apply as amended by this endorsement and the declarations.
4. This endorsement does not change scheduled limits, deductibles, forms, classifications, rating bases, or premiums unless a row in the schedule or another endorsement specifically states the change.
5. If this endorsement conflicts with another state amendatory endorsement, the provision applicable to the described premises controls.
6. Notice periods, appraisal rights, cancellation terms, and suit limitation provisions apply only as amended for the state and policy period shown.
7. This endorsement must be read with the declarations, coverage form, forms schedule, and any endorsement naming the same location or coverage.

LOCATION: 002 BUILDING: 002
COVERAGE: Equipment Breakdown
FORM: BPF 04 62 EDITION: 06 21 LIMIT: $275,000

A. Scheduled Premises And Coverage

B. This form applies to Equipment Breakdown at Location 002, Building 002, subject to the $275,000 limit and $5,000 deductible shown in the declarations.

C. Form BPF 04 62 edition 06 21 must be read with the premises schedule and the Replacement Cost valuation entry.

D. The carrier's evaluation of the risk and the subsequent premium calculation heavily rely upon the presence and functionality of the property protection systems detailed in the application. These systems include automatic sprinklers, central station fire alarms, and monitored security arrays.

E. The policyholder is obligated to maintain these systems in complete working order throughout the policy period. Routine maintenance, testing, and necessary repairs must be conducted in accordance with the manufacturer's specifications and industry standards.

F. If a scheduled protection system becomes impaired or is intentionally taken offline for maintenance, the policyholder must notify the carrier immediately. The carrier may require the implementation of temporary safeguards, such as a fire watch, until the system is restored.

G. Failure to maintain the required systems or to notify the carrier of an impairment may result in the suspension of coverage for specific perils. For example, if a sprinkler system is disabled without notice, indemnity for fire damage may be jeopardized.

H. The carrier may mandate periodic certifications from qualified contractors to verify the operational status of critical systems. The policyholder must secure these certifications and provide copies to the carrier upon request.

I. If the policyholder plans to alter, upgrade, or remove a scheduled protection system, advance written notice must be submitted to the carrier. The carrier will evaluate the proposed changes and determine if a premium adjustment or policy modification is necessary.

J. In buildings where the policyholder is a tenant and does not control the central protection systems, the obligation is limited to maintaining the components within their leased space and promptly reporting any known building-wide impairments to the landlord.

K. The presence of a protection system does not guarantee that a loss will be entirely prevented. The policyholder must still exercise reasonable care to mitigate hazards and protect the premises.

L. If a loss occurs and the investigation reveals that a protection system was intentionally disabled by the policyholder prior to the event, the carrier may deny the claim based on a breach of these specific conditions.

M. These requirements apply specifically to the systems identified during the underwriting process and noted on the declarations or protective safeguards schedule.

THIS FORM MUST BE READ WITH THE DECLARATIONS, SCHEDULES AND ENDORSEMENTS.
NO ORAL STATEMENT OR PRODUCER CORRESPONDENCE CHANGES THIS FORM.
